

Gas Rationing Conflicts Bring State Of Chaos

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Chaos, that's the word for the gasoline shortage.

While the federal gasoline allocation system has failed to ease acute shortages in much of the country, odd-even rationing plans in hard-hit states, counties and communities often confuse the situation.

In some cases, conflicts among county, community, state and federal regulations leave a gas-thirsty John Q. Public angry and bewildered as he waits in long lines to get $3 worth.

And whether he gets $3 worth or a full tank is determined by the station owner who may have a rationing system of his own.

In Florida, for example, Sarasota County uses the Oregon plan of odd-even gas purchases. Cars with license plates ending in even numbers may purchase gas on even days and those with odd plates on odd days. Drivers in the county with out-of-state plates may buy an additional five gallons no matter the day, but the city of Sarasota does not allow such purchases by out-of-staters.

New York Gov. Malcolm Wilson said he has "a visceral reaction against government directing people what to do" and has declined to make mandatory the voluntary Oregon odd-even system now in force.

But the Westchester County legislature passed a mandatory Oregon buying plan this week, including the provision that local community governments can supersede it.

Already the Yonkers City Council has passed a law that includes the basic Westchester County provisions and adds that stations may establish hours when they may cater to regular customers only. That despite a Federal Energy Office ruling that gasoline stations cannot favor regular customers.

And in upstate New York, Saratoga Springs has adopted a different voluntary odd-even plan based on the days of the week. Motorists with odd-numbered plates can get gas on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday, while even-plated motorists get gas on the other days.

Hawaii has four different gas plans in effect, all mandatory. But since the state has four islands, each with its own plan, there is no overlap.

Adding to the confusion, station operator protests against federal handling of the gas shortages were threatened or under way in four Eastern states: Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut and New York.

Some Delaware operators began a pump-out protest Thursday, vowing to sell gas as fast as customers wanted to buy it until their month's allocations were gone.

In Washington, Federal Energy Office chief William E. Simon said his office was working on a new allocation formula. He also met with governors from six hard-hit states: Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Rhode Island and Washington.

Federal officials have admitted widespread failure in the first month of allocation attempts. They point to bad data, inexperience, over-reliance on oil company cooperation and political factors.

FEO state-by-state estimates of gas supplies were wildly wrong, often by more than 30 per cent and even by 60 per cent.

Ohio Losing Millions In Gasoline Revenue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Transportation Department stands to lose $8 million a year in gasoline tax revenue as a result of slower highway speeds ordered by the federal government and a decline in auto travel, a spokesman says.

The estimate was released Thursday along with a report by the department showing a $1.2 million revenue loss in December as a result of less gas buying.

States have been ordered to slow highway traffic to 55 miles an hour by March 3 or lose federal support of roadway construction projects.

The department has lost nearly $1.7 million in tax revenue since November, when Sunday service station closings went into effect, said Lee Tashjian, department public relations assistant.

December revenues decreased overall by one-half of one per cent, he added.

"Another way to put it is Ohioans bought two million gallons of fuel less than they usually do," he said.

A check of the first 12 days of December showed road traffic down 8 per cent on Ohio's interstate highways and 20 per cent off on rural highways, he said.

Despite the effect of fewer gas purchases on the transportation budget, Tashjian said a tax increase is not yet in the picture.

Instead, he said, the department hopes to get approval of a funding reorganization plan that would allow it to pool all transportation monies in the state and dole it out to areas of worst need.

For example, state highway construction projects, hard hit by the energy crunch, could borrow from mass transit funds, which are expected to increase as a result of the fuel shortage, Tashjian said.

The department announced early last month that all new state-funded highway building projects were being shelved because of the loss of gas tax money.

These projects include all resurfacing projects this spring, he said.

The department last year resurfaced 200 miles of roadway damaged by snow, ice, salting and road shoveling, at a cost of $21 million.

"A definite plus this year is the lack

Fear Bread Shortages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bakers Association says immediate government action is needed to avert a possible bread shortage.

"People may have to stand in line for a loaf of bread, at much higher prices, the way they now wait in line to buy gasoline," ABA President Robert J. Wager said in a statement Thursday.

Wager said Agriculture Department figures as of Feb. 1 show a 23-million-bushel deficit for hard red winter wheat, the basic type for bread.

The ABA asked the Agriculture Department to determine the minimum wheat supply necessary for domestic consumption during the second quarter of 1974 and develop a plan to assure that supply.

"Unless the government takes immediate action there could be no bread on our tables for up to four weeks this spring," said a report by the bakers association.

Guard, Copilot, Assailant Slain In Hijack Attempt

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Three persons were killed today during an apparent hijacking attempt at Baltimore-Washington International Airport, the Federal Aviation Administration said.

A gunman and an airport security guard were shot and killed at the scene. The copilot of the Delta DC9 that was the target of the hijacker died about three hours later at a Baltimore hospital, the hospital said.

The plane's pilot was seriously wounded in the shooting, according to Anne Arundel County police, and was undergoing surgery.

A stewardess who jumped from the plane during the incident hurt her back, authorities said, adding that the plane's passengers escaped injury.

Police said an unidentified object was under a bomb blanket at the edge of the runway. It was not immediately known whether the object had been taken off the plane.

The FBI, state police, county and airport police were searching the airport with bomb-sniffing dogs after sealing off the area where the shooting occurred.

Flight 523 to Atlanta was apparently loaded with 70 passengers when the incident began to unfold at 7:03 a.m.

County police described it as follows:

The gunman, identified only as a white male, walked up behind the unidentified airport policeman, pulled a gun and shot him once in the back, killing him.

Two county policemen in the airport heard the shots and ran toward the boarding area, where they saw the gunman running down the jetway and onto the plane.

Officer Charles Toyer of county police said he got to the plane as the door was closing and the engines were being revved up.

Toyer said he fired two shots at the plane's tires but thought he missed. Observers, however, later spotted two flat tires in the front of the plane.

Toyer said he then ran to the front of the plane and, looking through the windows of the cockpit, saw the gunman shoot the pilot and copilot.

Toyer said he then opened fire and shot the gunman, who was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital.

The copilot was identified by the FAA as Fred Jones of Dallas. Authorities said he had suffered gunshot wounds in the head and chest.

The pilot, Capt. Doug Lofton of Ft. Worth, underwent surgery at University for bullet wounds of the back and left shoulder, the spokesmen said.

Hearst Unable To Meet Demands

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — The Hearst family is ready to launch an unprecedented feed-the-poor program in the face of new demands from the terrorist kidnapers of their daughter, Patricia.

There was no assurance that the $2 million free food distribution plan starting today would satisfy the Symbionese Liberation Army, which claims to hold the girl as its "prisoner of war."

In a 20-minute tape recording received late Wednesday and released Thursday, the SLA denounced Hearst's effort as "throwing a few crumbs to the people." The group demanded that another $4 million be pumped into the program to feed needy Californians.

Only if all its complex new demands are met will the way be cleared for actual negotiations for Patricia Hearst's freedom, the SLA said.

The SLA leader who calls himself "Cinque" set a deadline of today for Miss Hearst's father, newspaper magnate Randolph A. Hearst, to set the $6 million food program into motion.

There was no immediate response from Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp. After pledging the initial $2 million, he said there was no more money "in the kitty."

Cinque, however, accused Hearst of holding back vast sums of the family and Hearst Corp. fortune which he claimed amounted to hundreds of millions of dollars.

There was new militancy in the message after a more conciliatory communication last Saturday that raised family hopes for an early release of Miss Hearst.

The pretty 20-year-old University of California coed was dragged from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4 by two black men and a white woman who fired shots at witnesses.

A 10-second long message from Miss Hearst at the end of Cinque's recording convinced the top FBI official on the case that she is alive.

"I'm sure she's alive and just hope and pray that she's released safely some time," said Charles Bates, special agent in charge of the FBI in San Francisco.

Bates added, "We have nothing to go on at this point."

The ninth of 10 specific demands in the carefully read message from Cinque was:

"That the total amount of $6 million be allotted to your designated peoples in need or charity organizations within 24 hours of receipt of this order and that the food be available to the people within one week of receipt of this order."

Hearst remained in his mansion 15 miles south of San Francisco for the second consecutive day Thursday without making a public appearance.

Flu Outbreak Spreads Across Ohio

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A state health department official says the flu outbreak which hit southern Ohio earlier this month is starting to move into the northern parts of the state.

Dr. Alan Schmerler, health department epidemiologist, said in Columbus the outbreak—which he calls normal for this time of year—caused school absenteeism of 10 to 25 per cent in the southern part of the state, with Butler and Hamilton counties among the hardest hit.

School officials at Findlay said absenteeism was running from five to 33 per cent in 12 city schools because of the flu, and Whittier elementary school was being closed today. About 33 of the Whittier pupils were reported absent Thursday.

However, school officials said the epidemic appeared to be on the decline.

Health officials in Cincinnati said absenteeism at city schools has been declining since last Friday, when more than 14 schools reported absenteeism above 27 per cent.

In Cleveland, Dr. Carl Opaskar, directing supervisor of school health services, said some schools have reported absenteeism as high as 25 per cent, but other schools have reported very few flu cases.

There were no plans for closing any Cleveland schools.

Dr. Schmerler said about 600 measles cases have been reported in Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) since November, and some cases have been reported in Franklin and Ashtabula counties.

At Geneva, in Ashtabula County, about 460 of the 1,700 high school and junior high pupils were reported absent Tuesday. School nurses said it was difficult to determine how many of the absences were due to measles, but they said a few pupils were being sent home each day with the disease.

Dr. Schmerler said measles were affecting junior high pupils who never were immunized and children who were immunized before they were one year old.

Bulletin

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The abductors of Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy have contacted an intermediary and have said Murphy will be released tonight if "all goes well," the FBI said.

ATLANTA (AP) — Executives of Atlanta Newspapers Inc. waited word today on how they should pay the $700,000 ransom demanded by the abductors of editor Reg Murphy. He said in a taped message that he was being held by the American Revolutionary Army.

William H. Fields, executive editor of the Atlanta Constitution and the Atlanta Journal, said the ransom would be paid as soon as he is "apprised of the method and time."

Murphy, 40, editor of the Constitution, said in the taped message: "The American Revolutionary Army, as I understand it, feels that the American news media have been too leftist and too liberal. They intend to do something about that."

"That's the cause for my abduction. They also tell me that they have representatives in the major American cities, that they are quite strong, and that they are determined to return the American government to the American people."

Heavy Snow Hits Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow plastered parts of the Midwest today while severe thunderstorms triggered damaging winds and scattered flooding in areas south to the Gulf Coast.

The storm blanketed central and northeastern Iowa with up to 6 inches of snow before spreading into Wisconsin, southeastern Minnesota, northwestern Illinois and portions of Upper Michigan. Heavy-snow warnings were in effect for those areas.

South of the snow, rain fell from central Missouri across the Ohio Valley, causing local flooding in east-central Missouri and west-central Illinois.

Severe thunderstorms persisted from the central Gulf Coast states into Tennessee and Kentucky, and wind damage was reported from Alabama to northwest Florida.

Two nighttime tornadoes were sighted in western Florida 30 miles northwest of Panama City and 7 miles northeast of Pensacola. There were no reports of damage or injuries.

Ohio Losing Millions In Gasoline Revenue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Transportation Department stands to lose $8 million a year in gasoline tax revenue as a result of slower highway speeds ordered by the federal government and a decline in auto travel, a spokesman says.

The estimate was released Thursday along with a report by the department showing a $1.2 million revenue loss in December as a result of less gas buying.

States have been ordered to slow highway traffic to 55 miles an hour by March 3 or lose federal support of roadway construction projects.

Construction projects currently under way, or state-funded construction projects related to interstate highways, state or federal emergency highway projects, or projects under state issue one, are not affected, he said.

The building freeze was instituted on an expectation of an $80 million a year revenue drop should the federal government's gas rationing plan go into effect, Tashjian said.

The department figures Ohioans use 16 gallons of gasoline per week on the average, he said.

A one gallon decrease by all drivers would lose the department $12 million a year, he said, and a six gallon decrease would result in a net loss of $80 million.

Addressing his message to Jim Minter, managing editor of the Constitution, Murphy said, "Jim, the demand that they have is a ransom of $700,000. They understand that I don't have that kind of wealth and they don't make it personally, they make it toward the corporation."

Murphy said that someone in the Atlanta area would be called at random by the kidnapers.

"They will be given the kinds of demands that we're talking about here and they will expect the person who is called to call you," Murphy said.

He said the kidnapers wanted the money in $5, $10, $20 and $50 denominations packaged in plastic bags.

"They tell me it should not be new currency and it shouldn't have any particular sequence to the serial numbers," Murphy said.

Murphy disappeared after leaving his home Wednesday night with a man he said wanted him to help distribute $100,000 in heating oil for the needy.

Sources said the man was white, heavyset, in his early 20s, about 6 feet tall and wore a cowboy hat. He and Murphy left in a green car.

Fields said there was no doubt about the authenticity of the tape received Thursday by the newspaper.

"That was Reg's voice," he said.

"There's no question about it," Jim Rankin of the Constitution, who was serving as spokesman for the Murphy family, agreed.

"He sounded very serious," Rankin said. "There is no doubt that it was Reg."

In a voice that sounded tired but calm, Murphy said his kidnapers told him they intend to engage in guerrilla warfare throughout the country in the future.

But Murphy said that for now, they mainly want all elected federal officials to resign and "free" elections to be held.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market greeted the news of another prime rate decrease with a broad advance today.

At midday, advancing issues out-distanced declines by 2-1 on the New York Stock Exchange. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.25 at 848.09, despite marked weakness in some of the blue-chip issues which make up the average.

Brokers attributed much of the market's buoyancy to the swiftness with which a prime rate decrease from 9 to 8 3/4 per cent spread to major banks across the country this morning. The move was initiated by New York's First National City Bank shortly before the market opened.

The NYSE volume leader was H. F. Ahmanson, parent company of California's Home Savings & Loan. The stock rose 3/4 to 13 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .17 at 95.62.

Vocational School Runs Into Water Problems

A report from the Chillicothe Water Company has put a halt to Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School's plans to hook up to the city water system. Lloyd Overly, president of the Ross County Water Company, attended the regular meeting of the board Thursday evening and informed the board of current problems.

Information from the city water system informed the board that acceptance of the original proposal of a temporary hook-up would now entail sharing costs for the water. The temporary hook-up with the city water company had been proposed since the plan to obtain water for the school from the Ross County Water Company had been temporarily delayed.

Coal Board Bombshell Hits Britain

LONDON (AP) — The government pay board threw a bombshell into Britain's election campaign today with the announcement that striking coal miners are asking less than tradition entitles them to.

The board said that because of an error of computation, the government coal board had given the nation a false picture of the miners' situation in comparison with other workers.

The implication was that the miners' slowdown, the threeday work week Prime Minister Edward Heath ordered before Christmas, the coal strike and the current election campaign all might have been averted.

The miners staged a threemonth slowdown and then went on strike two weeks ago, demanding wage increases above the 7 per cent ceiling set by Heath's anti-inflation program.

Heath accused the miners of trying to hold the nation to ransom and called a general election Feb. 28 in an attempt to rally public support behind his stand.

The miners argued that they were entitled to more than a 7 per cent raise because they are traditionally the best paid of Britain's manual workers, and their edge over others had fallen to only 2 per cent. But the pay board announced it had discovered the miners' pay was not 2 per cent higher than other workers, it was 8 per cent below the top bracket.

The board said instead of being at the top of the industrial pack, as the government had insisted, the miners were 28th on the list of workers in manufacturing industry.

The announcement explained that the coal board, in assessing the miners' pay levels, had included their three weeks of vacation pay.

Federal Pay Raise Veto Blocked; 2nd Attempt Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veto action against President Nixon's pay raise proposal for congressmen and other top federal officials has been blocked in the House but a vote is reported likely in the Senate.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said Thursday he got the impression from other Democratic leaders that "a vote very likely will occur, possibly next Thursday or Friday."

The Senate Post Office Committee is scheduled to meet Tuesday to determine whether to recommend veto of the President's pay raise proposal or some modification, such as elimination or reduction of the pay raise for congressmen.

Congressmen, federal judges and top administration officials get the pay raises recommended by President Nixon Feb. 4 unless either the House or Senate vetoes or modifies them by March 6.

House action on a veto resolution against the pay raise was blocked in the House Post Office Committee Thursday when 14 members stayed away, preventing a quorum to vote on reporting it out to the full House.

Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, who tried to force the committee vote, then introduced a discharge petition to try to force the veto resolution on to the House floor.

But Gross said he was not optimistic that the discharge petition procedure could force a House vote before the March 6 deadline.

President Nixon's pay raise proposal would boost congressional salaries from their present $42,500 a year to $45,700 next year, $49,100 in 1975 and $52,800 in 1976.

Men Arraigned In Pig Theft

Four men arrested for rustling pigs from Walter Writsel were arraigned in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Thursday afternoon. The men had been taken under custody by the county sheriff's department Feb. 12 and 13 after the incident at the Writsel residence, Route 1, Orient.

Keith Michael Day and Everett Johnson, both of Columbus pleaded guilty to fourth degree breaking and entering and grand theft. Day was also charged with unlawful trespassing and grand theft of a welder from James Valentine, Route 1, Lockbourne. He also pleaded guilty to these charges.

Paul Spurlock and Bobby Gene Chaffins, also of Columbus, entered negotiated pleas of guilty to charges of breaking and entering. The prosecutor then recommended the charges of grand theft against each of them be dismissed. Chaffins and Spurlock were also involved in the pig rustling and were represented by legal counsel while the other two had waived the right to counsel.

The court ordered pre-sentence reports to be prepared on all the men. Upon completion of the reports by the Adult Parole Authority, the hearing for sentencing will take place.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market greeted the news of another prime rate decrease with a broad advance today.

At midday, advancing issues out-distanced declines by 2-1 on the New York Stock Exchange. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.25 at 848.09, despite marked weakness in some of the blue-chip issues which make up the average.

Brokers attributed much of the market's buoyancy to the swiftness with which a prime rate decrease from 9 to 8 3/4 per cent spread to major banks across the country this morning. The move was initiated by New York's First National City Bank shortly before the market opened.

The NYSE volume leader was H. F. Ahmanson, parent company of California's Home Savings & Loan. The stock rose 3/4 to 13 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .17 at 95.62.

Vocational School Runs Into Water Problems

A report from the Chillicothe Water Company has put a halt to Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School's plans to hook up to the city water system. Lloyd Overly, president of the Ross County Water Company, attended the regular meeting of the board Thursday evening and informed the board of current problems.

Information from the city water system informed the board that acceptance of the original proposal of a temporary hook-up would now entail sharing costs for the water. The temporary hook-up with the city water company had been proposed since the plan to obtain water for the school from the Ross County Water Company had been temporarily delayed. The Ross County Water Company is currently maintaining problems in delayed delivery of scheduled materials. The original satisfactory answer to the dilemma of the school obtaining water by the time of the opening of classes was to get the temporary arrangement with the city system.

Now, with the city's statement, the situation has been changed to include a cost sharing which was not included in the original proposal. The city informed the board that the company had run into an unanticipated cost when they considered the proposition and would be forced to pass a substantial part of that cost on to the vocational school district.

The board refused to accept the city's amended proposal and directed the architect to obtain immediate cost estimates for a well water system to serve the school. He will have these estimates ready for board approval as soon as possible.

Other board action was the approval of the financial report and a change order. In the change order, two smaller trash compactors were ordered instead of the one large one. The remainder of the agenda was deferred until a meeting on Feb. 25. At that time, reports from the vocational director, coordinator of guidance and the superintendent will be submitted. Other unfinished business to be included in Monday's meeting will include statements from the architect and a report from the building committee on the purchase of board room furniture.

Federal Pay Raise Veto Blocked; 2nd Attempt Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veto action against President Nixon's pay raise proposal for congressmen and other top federal officials has been blocked in the House but a vote is reported likely in the Senate.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said Thursday he got the impression from other Democratic leaders that "a vote very likely will occur, possibly next Thursday or Friday."

The Senate Post Office Committee is scheduled to meet Tuesday to determine whether to recommend veto of the President's pay raise proposal or some modification, such as elimination or reduction of the pay raise for congressmen.

Congressmen, federal judges and top administration officials get the pay raises recommended by President Nixon Feb. 4 unless either the House or Senate vetoes or modifies them by March 6.

House action on a veto resolution against the pay raise was blocked in the House Post Office Committee Thursday when 14 members stayed away, preventing a quorum to vote on reporting it out to the full House.

Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, who tried to force the committee vote, then introduced a discharge petition to try to force the veto resolution on to the House floor.

But Gross said he was not optimistic that the discharge petition procedure could force a House vote before the March 6 deadline.

President Nixon's pay raise proposal would boost congressional salaries from their present $42,500 a year to $45,700 next year, $49,100 in 1975 and $52,800 in 1976.

Federal appeals court judges and assistant federal agency heads would get the same raise and lower federal officials would get corresponding threestep raises.

Federal agency chiefs and Supreme Court justices would get a one-step raise starting next year to $64,500 from their present $60,000.

Under a special procedure established by Congress, pay raises for top federal officials are recommended every four years by a select commission and then set by the president subject to Congress' veto.

"The Turquoise Mask" by Phyllis A. Whitney is a gothic novel touched with romance. It concerns a young woman's journey to New Mexico to seek the truth about her mother's murder. Nostalgia fills the novel, "The Reason for Roses" by Babs Deal. The story centers around three girls — cousins who grew up in the south before World War II.

"The Dreamers" by Ellen Bromfield Geld is a novel about a young couple from Ohio who marry and move to Brazil. Life there is different than they pictured and threatens to destroy their dreams. Spanning the years from the first quarter of the century to the 1970's, "The Heart Listens" by Helen Van Slyke explores the many loves in Elizabeth Quigley's life.

Garson Kanin's "A Thousand Summers" is a haunting love story about a small-town pharmacist and a diplomat's wife. After discovering a mutual enchantment with Japan, they dream of a Japanese house on a remote island. Then tragedy strikes.

"The Revenge of Annie Charlie" by Alan Fry is about a small time rancher who wants to be left alone, an Indian girl with whom he is involved, the chief of a nearby reservation and an uptight-do-it-by-the books Mountie.

When two nuclear submarines vanish in the vicinity of a lurking enemy vessel, the American answer is silent reprisal with a forgotten sub-tub complete with misfit, dispensable crew. "The Submariner" by Edward Stephens tells of the Devilfish's mission.

"The Time It Never Rained" by Elmer Kelton is a novel of men against nature. Based on an actual incident, it is the story of a prolonged drought and its searing effect on the land and the men and women it touches.

A suspenseful action novel, providing an inside look at the world of commercial aviation today, is "Jetstream" by Austin Ferguson.

For mystery fans "Dance Hall of the Dead" by Tony Hellerman is a suspense story about murder and the generation gap among Zuni and Navajo Indian Tribes. Jacqueline Wilson's "Hide and Seek" is a psychological suspense story about a kidnapper whose motive is not money.

How did a prominent industrialist's body gets buried under tons of marble in a sealed church tower? Inspector Sloan must find out in "His Burial Too" by Catherine Aird.

The setting of "A Gastronomic Murder" by Alexandra Roudybush is both contemporary and wartime Europe. This is the tale of a man who married once for money — once for truffled liver pate. Fortunately he died before his past caught up with him.

Even though we've purchased multiple copies, you'll probably have difficulty getting "Aliens from Space" by Major Donald E. Keyhoe. Keyhoe presents new and carefully documented information on the U. F. O. controversy.

"Earthwatch: Notes on a Restless Planet" by Daniel and Jean Shepard is an account of nature's short-lived phenomena taken from the up-to-the-minute data of the Center for Short-lived Phenomena in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Some are earth science phenomena like the pyramid under the sea — the Kovachi Submarine eruption. Some are biological phenomena like the St. Louis Spider invasion or Australia's mouse plague.

Hugh Downs, the popular TV personality, outlines steps to follow to attain emotional maturity and a better life in "Potential: The Way to Emotional Maturity."

Youth Disarms Gunman Because 'He Hates Crime'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A 13-year-old eighth grader who chased, captured and disarmed a robber says he did it because he hates crime.

"The money was somebody else's property, and he shouldn't have it," David Blake Limbrick said Wednesday.

David works as a janitor for a few hours each Saturday at the Cleaning Bar in northeast Portland.

He said he was washing windows last Saturday when a robber entered, showed a gun, and ordered the till opened. Also present were owner Muriel Rohr and another employee.

"He was about 5 feet 6 inches," said David, who stands 5-9½ and weighs 135. "He had a .22-caliber magnum revolver in his hand."

The robber took the money, left the shop and put the gun in his pocket. David gave chase, but lost the man in a back yard.

"Finally I spotted his footprints in the mud and they led me right to him, squatted down by a garage," David said. "He didn't have the gun out."

"He said he'd give me the money just so I didn't turn him in. He said his wife was in the hospital. Then he handed the money over."

He said he grabbed the robber's arms and shoved him into the street. "That's when I took his gun away. The reasons I chased him at all were because he was little and because I thought it was a toy gun. When I realized it wasn't a toy gun it scared me pretty bad."

David said he brought the man back to the cleaning shop at gunpoint and held him until the police arrived. The man, Ivan Johnson, 20, was charged with first degree robbery.

The police department sent David a letter thanking him for his support, cooperation and courage. But the youth said he didn't think he'd try it again.

"I was lucky this time that the guy didn't turn around and plug a hole in me," David said.

Transit Measure Wins Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees have agreed on a compromise bill that would provide $800 million in federal operating subsidies for deficit-plagued urban mass transit systems.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., the bill's main sponsor, said Wednesday there were indications President Nixon might sign the measure.

Nixon previously has opposed direct federal aid to meet transit operating deficits. But in his 1974 program he announced he would favor some allocations to cities for operating subsidies.

OU-L Cheerleaders Win Regional Competition

The Ohio University-Lancaster Campus cheerleading squad won first place in the State Regional Campus cheerleading competition held this past weekend in Chillicothe. This is the fourth time in the past five years that the local squad has been state champions. The competition was held in conjunction with the Ohio Regional Campus basketball tournament.

Fourteen squads from around the state entered the contest. Second place honors were taken by Wright State-Celina campus and third place by Ohio State-Lima campus.

Four Ross County area cheerleading advisors served as judges for the competition. They awarded the OU-L cheerleaders 374 points out of a total of 400. One of the judges gave the girls a perfect score of 100.

Each squad was required to perform a "Hello" cheer and a cheer of their choice. Each of the cheers performed by the Lancaster girls ended in a difficult mount, utilizing the fly mount and the pyramid mount.

A team trophy was presented to the squad immediately following the competition.

Members of the champion squad are Roxi Saultz, Brenda Craiglow, Starr Conrad, Brenda DeLong, Debbie LeClair, and Jan Morgan.

A Page Of Opinion

Cheap Land Days Past

To the land-hungry urbanite a magazine ad offering a list of available government land for $1 an acre, or a similarly nominal sum, can be mighty appealing. Thousands fall for such ads every year. This is the season when "government land" fever seems to reach a peak.

There is no such thing as cheap government land. Land the government puts up for sale from time to time brings market prices. The Interior Department Bureau of Land Management occasionally sells public land at auction, but the minimum bid accepted is the fair market value.

Romantic appeal and the bait of something for nothing form a money magnet for promoters of government land mirages.

Like the original homesteader, who in many cases found himself owner of an area consisting mostly of rocks and dust, the victims who reported they were bilked last year by government land operators, and the thousands of others who were taken but did not report it, discovered that utopia has not yet descended upon the world.

Coolness Under Fire

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—Has any couple of recent times whose child has been kidnapped conducted itself more nobly than Randolph and Catherine Hearst?

In the numbing unfolding of the case of their daughter, Patricia, and her captors, the besieged parents have endured and risen above ordeals and anxieties and pressures that few families, if any, face in an accumulated lifetime. Through channels as spooky as the Delphic Oracle must have been, they have communicated with one "Field Marshal Cin" of the Symbionese Liberation Army in a most civilized and human manner, seriously taking the SLA's astronomical ransom demands into consideration, counter-proposing solution that are in their reach.

The remote electronic relationship with their daughter has emotionally moved millions throughout the U.S. and the world. If there is a parallel in this land it is perhaps Anne Lindbergh's release of the recipe for her infant son's formula — to person or persons unknown.

The abduction of Miss Hearst has little or no relationship to the "average" kidnapping, if there is such a norm. Generally, the personal greed of the kidnapper is paramount: the Lindbergh, Weyerhaeuser, Greenleaf, and Getty cases, for examples. Patty Hearst's predicament is different.

If it was merely money the SLA desired, it would have been handed over in all probability days ago, and the girl would now be back in the bower of her family. But this is a demanding new dimension calling for the clearest of clear heads. It requires a reappraisal of the familiar righteousness and indignant reaction by-gone cases.

As unflappable a soul as Lindbergh jumped at the proffered offer to help from the likes of the bawdy Jafie, also the corrupt and nutty minister who led him on a fool's voyage into Chesapeake Bay in search of a non-existent boat on which the child was supposed to be, and two New York hoodlums named Irving Spitz and Salvatore Spitalo, seeking cut-rate redemption for their previous sins.

Randolph Hearst, a World War II pilot, has been besieged by a new generation of nuts and off-beat advisers. But he has made it clear that, in effect, "We'll go it on our own; please don't interfere." He said as much to Attorney-General William Saxbe, who offered him brave "shoot it out" advice from the safety of the Justice Department, 2,600 miles removed.

The abductors may be too young to remember that Patty Hearst's grandmother once ran a milk fund that provided free milk for countless thousands of New York children.

Speaking of courageous daughters, Julie Nixon Eisenhower must be one of the few comforts her father has had in recent months. Her hospitalization in Indianapolis, where she works for a living for the Saturday Evening Post, recalls her doughty defense of her old man when all other voices seemed to be raised against him.

He's a lucky man to have a kid as loyal and constant as Julie.

Cleveland Amory, my neighbor, is a latter-day St. Francis of Assisi in his love of all God's creatures. Cleve writes a fine column named "Animals." Lots of lively question-and-answer stuff. I'm usually in his cheering section but find my faith wavering a bit over a recent exchange with one of his readers that went like this:

"Q.—Should I brush my cat's teeth?"

"A.—Yes, you should. Also brush your dog's. Biscuits and bones won't do the job. Your dog won't like it much, and your cat won't particularly. But if you start early and make a game out of it — or at least some fun — you can do it. Never mind the fancy toothpaste, either. Use plain salt solution — and also a very soft brush, or a piece of cotton. What this will do is keep down the 'plaque' — the film on the teeth."

NEW YORK (AP) — Many institutional stock market traders are being reduced to exasperated inactivity by the uncertainties that seem to be more numerous than at any time since World War II.

The energy problem, inflation, threatened recession both domestically and internationally, shortages of basic goods, enormous food price increases, the President's problems and a generally sour national mood are among the elements. Because of this, some institutions have tried to resolve their dilemma by temporarily putting their funds into short-term debt securities instead of into stocks. To a large extent this is done merely for conservation of capital.

Argus Research explains that short-term securities provide a high yield by historical standards, and until recently a yield higher than long-term bonds. They thus so provide institutions with a safe, easy repository for their dollars. For a while the mutual fund industry, which has been taking its lumps for more than two years, seemed to be able to see a path through the maze and began committing funds. But that was last October.

At that time the growing realization that there was a surplus of demand for natural resources convinced them that industry in this grouping was the place for their money. And so, for the first time in nearly two years, mutual funds became net buyers of stocks.

Internal problems had contributed to their long absence from the market, as well as the uncertainty. Throughout 1972 and much of 1973 mutual fund shareholders had redeemed shares heavily, which tended to tie the hands of portfolio managers.

In all 1973, for example, mutual fund redemptions exceeded sales by $1.3 billion. In anticipation of having to pay for these redemptions, some funds were forced to keep large cash balances they otherwise might have invested in stocks.

In October, however, the funds and other institutions thought they saw the light. They invested heavily in natural resources.

Analysts at Standard & Poor's noted that nearly all the natural resource groups were outstanding market performers in 1973, making gains despite a 17.4 per cent drop in the S&P 500-stock index.

But the funds, and probably other institutions also, tended to retreat from the market in November and December.

And now, comments Argus Research: "Both institutional and individual investors appear to be in a mild catatonic state these days. They have witnessed a clobbering of virtually every type of common stock — including many sacred cows in the growth and energy groups."

And that, for the present at least, leaves portfolio managers with little to contemplate but uncertainties. And uncertainty has always generated inactivity.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What can be done for the painful bouts of earaches that always seem to happen in the middle of the night with our small children?

Mrs. T. E., Mich.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Almost always these earaches are associated with some upper respiratory infection, cold in the head, infection in the sinuses or allergy. The pain resembles the discomfort that occurs when some adults make a rapid descent in an airplane.

Temporary relief can be obtained with moist heat or an electric pad applied directly to the ear. Always be certain not to injure the skin with too intense heat.

Aspirin is excellent to relieve pain. Most doctors are aware that parents usually give tiny insignificant doses of special children's aspirin, which does not seem to do much good. The answer lies in the fact that not enough aspirin was given in a single dose.

The dosage of aspirin depends on the body weight of the child and his age. A 5-year-old child, for example, could take an adult 5-grain tablet for this kind of intense pain.

Children seem to get relief from the use of a vaporizer, using hot or cold moisture. A small tent made with a blanket gives more concentration and better relief.

Special oily ear drops instilled in the ear are beneficial. Care must be taken not to burn the outer ear and the ear canal with oil that is too hot.

Whenever I take an antibiotic my whole intestinal tract is thrown out of order.

How can I avoid this if I need an antibiotic?

Mr. L. U., Tex.

Dear Mr. U.:

Such a reaction is rather common. Many people can take antibiotics in every form without having any disturbance. Others may develop fungus infections of the mouth or itching and fungus infections of the anal opening.

The antibiotics are involved in many complex processes in the intestines. For example, bacteria that normally lie in the intestinal tract take an active part in the production of Vitamin B. When these bacteria are killed by an antibiotic, temporary vitamin deficiency may occur.

Fungi are normally kept in control by bacteria. When antibiotics are taken for a long time, the fungi flourish and become highly active, producing unpleasant symptoms.

Some doctors suggest that the antibiotics be taken with gelatin dessert, with yogurt, with milk, or during meals. There are also some anti-fungal medicines that may prevent these reactions.

Bring Boys Home

By JIM BISHOP

Nations are mortal. Like people, they die when they stop fighting to live. The agony of the patriot is that he must be willing to wear a uniform, shoulder a rifle, and be prepared to risk death at the hands of a stranger who fights for an alien philosophy.

It was like this all the way back to the nomadic tribes. Everybody is opposed to war but, when it comes, if the young men run and hide, they aid and abet the enemy.

The United States of America has about 40,000 deserters of the war in Vietnam at large. They skulk in bitterness in Sweden, in Algeria, in Canada, in small towns across the U.S.

An organization called Safe Return campaigns to grant them forgiveness. Unfortunately, Safe Return was not devised to help the 53,000 American soldiers who died in Vietnam. They lie uncomplaining in boxes.

Several such organizations pressure the President and the Congress to permit the 40,000 to come back to their families, be accorded the protection of the Constitution, and feel to complain about what a lousy system we have.

Count my small vote as opposed to anything less than slamming all of them into military prisons for the full time they would have served in the military. As Americans, we arrogate to ourselves the right to disagree internally, but, when we are called to fight a good war or a bad one, we are the UNITED STATES.

Call them deserters, slackers, cowards, anything you please. In an article in the current Progressive, Judith Miller refers to them as "self-retired veterans." The label isn't important. I think of them as "Slackers Anonymous."

Miss Miller writes a sympathetic but unpersuasive article for amnesty. I applauded the President when he shouted Never! Never! It is conceded that American involvement in Vietnam was the most costly error in U.S. political history. We buried our blood and our treasure in rice paddies.

Among the casualties was a man named Lyndon Johnson. He believed his generals. Another President promised us "peace with honor." We got peace, but Vietnam didn't. Honor is a word used by women of questionable character.

War has always been the worst of man's vices. It is, as has been said, the final word in diplomacy. There are no good ones. But, good or bad, no nation can afford to allow its youth to decide individually for or against war.

If the U.S. grants amnesty to the 40,000 who ran away from the flag, this country could never again raise an army or a navy. If the need arose, 4,000,000 could evade serving our country because there is no reason why I should risk my life in battle if I am certain to be forgiven my desertion of the colors later.

Within a few weeks, the House will begin hearings on amnesty. I don't know why. Those eager to testify are the people of Safe Return, relatives and friends of men who refused to fight but who are now so miserable in other lands that they are — excuse the expression — dying to come home.

The big organization, of course, is the National Committee for Universal and Unconditional Amnesty. It is a coalition of scores of peace groups. The current law states that a deserter can be sentenced to three years in prison. If the 53,000 dead heard it, they would smile in their graves.

The peace groups should, I feel, canvas the government of North Vietnam and North Korea and ask how they disposed of slackers. It cannot hurt to ascertain how other socialist countries, such as China and the Soviet Union, patted "war resisters" on the back and got around to saying: "Come on home. All is forgiven."

I confess that I feel that it is criminal to spend 87 billion dollars on defense. However, if it is necessary to spend this much to make American invincible to attack, it is money well spent — an expensive insurance policy.

But money alone will not save America. We require patriots who feel that this country is worth saving. We must have the same caliber of humans who, at Concord and Lexington, were called Minutemen. Let us grant no amnesty for the man who wants his country to serve him, but will not serve his country...

A Page Of Opinion

Cheap Land Days Past

To the land-hungry urbanite a magazine ad offering a list of available government land for $1 an acre, or a similarly nominal sum, can be mighty appealing. Thousands fall for such ads every year. This is the season when "government land" fever seems to reach a peak.

There is no such thing as cheap government land. Land

the government puts up for sale from time to time brings market prices. The Interior Department Bureau of Land Management occasionally sells public land at auction, but the minimum bid accepted is the fair market value.

Romantic appeal and the bait of something for nothing form a money magnet for promoters of government land mirages.

Like the original homesteader, who in many cases found himself owner of an area consisting mostly of rocks and dust, the victims who reported they were bilked last year by government land operators, and the thousands of others who were taken but did not report it, discovered that utopia has not yet descended upon the world.

Coolness Under Fire

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—Has any couple of recent times whose child has been kidnapped conducted itself more nobly than Randolph and Catherine Hearst?

In the numbing unfolding of the case of their daughter, Patricia, and her captors, the besieged parents have endured and risen above ordeals and anxieties and pressures that few families, if any, face in an accumulated lifetime. Through channels as spooky as the Delphic Oracle must have been, they have communicated with one "Field Marshal Cin of the Symbionese Liberation Army" in a most civilized and human manner, seriously taking the SLA's astronomical ransom demands into consideration, counter-proposing solution that are in their reach.

The remote electronic relationship with their daughter has emotionally moved millions throughout the U.S. and the world. If there is a parallel in this land it is perhaps Anne Lindbergh's release of the recipe for her infant son's formula — to person or persons unknown.

The abduction of Miss Hearst has little or no relationship to the "average" kidnapping, if there is such a norm. Generally, the personal greed of the kidnapper is paramount: the Lindbergh, Weyerhaeuser, Greenlease, and Getty cases, for examples. Patty Hearst's predicament is different.

If it was merely money the SLA desired, it would have been handed over in all probability days ago, and the girl would now be back in the bower of her family. But this is a demanding new dimension calling for the clearest of clear heads. It requires a reappraisal of the familiar righteousness and indignant reaction by-gone cases.

As unflappable a soul as Lindbergh jumped at the proffered offer to help from the likes of the bawdy Jafie, also the corrupt and nutty minister who led him on a fool's voyage into Chesapeake Bay in search of a non-existent boat on which the child was supposed to be, and two New York hoodlums named Irving Spitz and Salvatore Spitali, seeking cut-rate redemption for their previous sins.

Randolph Hearst, a World War II pilot, has been besieged by a new generation of nuts and off-beat advisers. But he has made it clear that, in effect, "We'll go it on our own; please don't interfere." He said as much to Attorney-General William Saxbe, who offered him brave "shoot it out" advice from the safety of the Justice Department, 2,600 miles removed.

The abductors may be too young to remember that Patty Hearst's grandmother once ran a milk fund that provided free milk for countless thousands of New York children.

Speaking of courageous daughters, Julie Nixon Eisenhower must be one of the few comforts her father has had in recent months. Her hospitalization in Indianapolis, where she works for a living for the Saturday Evening Post, recalls her doughty defense of her old man when all other voices seemed to be raised against him.

He's a lucky man to have a kid as loyal and constant as Julie.

Cleveland Amory, my neighbor, is a latter-day St. Francis of Assisi in his love of all God's creatures. Cleve writes a fine column named "Animals." Lots of lively question-and-answer stuff. I'm usually in his cheering section but find my faith wavering a bit over a recent exchange with one of his readers that went like this:

"Q.—Should I brush my cat's teeth?"

"A.—Yes, you should. Also brush your dog's. Biscuits and bones won't do the job. Your dog won't like it much, and your cat won't particularly. But if you start early and make a game out of it — or at least some fun — you can do it. Never mind the fancy toothpaste, either. Use plain salt solution — and also a very soft brush, or a piece of cotton. What this will do is keep down the 'plaque' — the film on the teeth."

NEW YORK (AP) — Many institutional stock market traders are being reduced to exasperated inactivity by the uncertainties that seem to be more numerous than at any time since World War II.

The energy problem, inflation, threatened recession both domestically and internationally, shortages of basic goods, enormous food price increases, the President's problems and a generally sour national mood are among the elements.

Because of this, some institutions have tried to resolve their dilemma by temporarily putting their funds into short-term debt securities instead of into stocks. To a large extent this is done merely for conservation of capital.

Argus Research explains that short-term securities provide a high yield by historical standards, and until recently a yield higher than long-term bonds. They thus so provide institutions with a safe, easy repository for their dollars.

For a while the mutual fund industry, which has been taking its lumps for more than two years, seemed to be able to see a path through the maze and began committing funds. But that was last October.

At that time the growing realization that there was a surplus of demand for natural resources convinced them that industry in this grouping was the place for their money. And so, for the first time in nearly two years, mutual funds became net buyers of stocks.

Internal problems had contributed to their long absence from the market, as well as the uncertainty. Throughout 1972 and much of 1973 mutual fund

Pretzel Symbol Of Christian Season

NEW YORK (AP) — That curious, convoluted chunk of bread, the pretzel, was in its origin a symbol of a Christian season that begins next week. And there's a move afoot to revive the custom.

"Pretzels for God," is the name of the drive, generated in Phoenix, Ariz., to put the pretzel back into the observance of Lent, the 40-day period of penitence and spiritual renewal preceding Easter.

"The idea has caught on tremendously here, among young and old and Catholics and Protestants," says Marlene McCauley, leader of the effort to point up the real meaning of the pretzel and restore its religious use.

"It's a holy symbol of prayer and penance," she says. "It's a sign of Christian love."

The group urges families at the start of Lent on Ash Wednesday next week to explain to children the religious origin of the pretzel, to serve it on each plate each day of Lent at the evening meal, opening with a "pretzel prayer."

The prayer, recalling early Christian use of the pretzel, goes in part:

TROY, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency has revoked the operating permit for the $1.1 million Miami County incinerator.

A county official said Wednesday the agency's action was based on a study last year that revealed "very fine particles of fly-ash" being discharged into the air.

Dr. Ira L. Whitman, EPA director, said the county must cease operations within 30 days unless a hearing on the matter is requested.

"Grant us, we pray, that we too, may be reminded by the daily sight of these pretzels to observe the holy season of Lent with true devotion and great spiritual fruit."

The pretzel push comes at a time when Lenten observances are more open to innovation, now that Roman Catholicism has lifted its former rules of mandatory fasting and abstinence from meat all through the period.

Instead of focusing on fixed routines of dietary limitations, the stress now in Catholicism — and also in Protestantism — is on positive programs for spiritual growth, such as special Bible study and religious reading, and on generosity to aid those in need. As for the pretzel's origins, the Rev. Francis X. Weiser, of Boston, a Catholic scholar on the history of Christian customs, says "it sounds surprising, but the pretzel has a deep spiritual meaning for Lent."

He says the pretzel first was made by Christians in the fifth century as Lenten bread, since it consists only of water, flour and salt (also yeast nowadays), but without eggs or milk (forbidden in lent in ancient times).

The pretzel originally was called "bracellae," Latin for "little arms," because of being shaped in the form of arms crossed in prayer. In Germany, it became known as "brezel" or "pretzel."

Pretzel Symbol Of Christian Season

NEW YORK (AP) — That curious, convoluted chunk of bread, the pretzel, was in its origin a symbol of a Christian season that begins next week. And there's a move afoot to revive the custom.

"Pretzels for God," is the name of the drive, generated in Phoenix, Ariz., to put the pretzel back into the observance of Lent, the 40-day period of penitence and spiritual renewal preceding Easter.

"The idea has caught on tremendously here, among young and old and Catholics and Protestants," says Marlene McCauley, leader of the effort to point up the real meaning of the pretzel and restore its religious use.

"It's a holy symbol of prayer and penance," she says. "It's a sign of Christian love."

The group urges families at the start of Lent on Ash Wednesday next week to explain to children the religious origin of the pretzel, to serve it on each plate each day of Lent at the evening meal, opening with a "pretzel prayer."

The prayer, recalling early Christian use of the pretzel, goes in part:

voice on the telephone, the first talking movie entitled "Singing Fool" with Charlie King, the voice of Will Rogers, the most famous love story which was the King of England in his abdication of the throne for the woman he loved and the first president to talk to the people with his proclamation of war.

World Assn. Day Observance Planned

During the week of Feb. 24th, Girl Scouts of America and Girl Guides from the rest of the world participate in one day set aside as World Association Day. This is done to show that the girls all belong to one organization, although different in name.

The local program will be on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Lutheran Parish House. Brownie and Girl Scouts will perform songs and dances from countries of the world. There will be displays or art work and foods from different countries.

Refreshments will be served following the program. The public is cordially invited to attend.

If there's parsley flourishing in your garden, you can transplant it to an indoor window box for winter growing.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Four-Letter Words

DEAR ABBY: I am extremely upset about the kind of books my son's English teacher assigns him to read. He's in the 11th grade.

These books contain some filthy four-letter words. My son doesn't want me to go to the school and complain. He says the whole class has to read them.

I think it's terrible to shove vulgarity down the throats of young people. If I heard my teen-age son using such language as he is being forced to read, he would get five knuckles in the mouth.

Am I wrong to be upset by this? I am 47 and never have read such filth.

I try to teach my children to keep their language and thoughts clean, and I send them to school and their teachers force trash down their throats. Your opinion, please.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: I, too, am offended by four-letter words. (It's a holdover from my early training—call it a "hangup.") But let's be fair. Not all writing that contains four-letter words is "trash." Some are judged to be classics by many highly-respected literary critics.

Relax, mother. I doubt that your son will be corrupted by an English assignment.

DEAR ABBY: Here's my problem; I have very short and stubby thumbs, and they are ugly and I am ashamed of them. Do you think they could be operated on to be made narrower?

I don't have any money, but would be willing to let a surgeon work on me as an experiment, and I would take my chances with the results. I am on welfare.

UGLY THUMBS

DEAR UGLY: Thumb a ride to your nearest medical school, and ask if they are interested in your proposition, but don't get your hopes up.

DEAR ABBY: For our first wedding anniversary, I surprised my husband with a beautiful gold wedding band, identical to the one he gave me.

He didn't have to tell me he didn't want to wear it, I could tell by his expression. He left it in the box. I foolishly insisted that he try it on, to see if it fit and then he told me that he thought a man who wore a wedding ring might as well wear a ring through his nose.

What do you think, Abby? I know it's dangerous for a man who works around machinery to wear a wedding ring at work, but my husband works in an office.

HURT IN ALABAMA

DEAR HURT: A man who wears a wedding ring obviously doesn't mind announcing to the world that he's married, but it doesn't necessarily follow that the married man who wears no ring is reluctant to admit it. Don't make an issue of it. He's entitled to his opinion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAVING MY DOUBTS": Don't marry any man whose ability to make rational decisions is questionable. I think his children are trying to line up a babysitter for his second childhood.

Cash Discount Lawsuit Filed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Credit card contracts with merchants should not prohibit discounts to customers paying cash, a consumers group contended Wednesday in a federal court suit.

Consumers Union asked U.S. District Court to outlaw provisions in BankAmericard and American Express credit card contracts with merchants that bar such cash discounts. The practice is illegal price fixing, the suit said.

Merchants honoring the credit cards must pay the credit card companies what amounts to a service charge of from 2 per cent to 8 per cent, Consumers Union said. The consumers group said merchants should be able to offer an equivalent discount to customers who pay the cash price and save the merchant the service charge.

Hey, the chart only tells part of the story. Don't forget, Duster gives good gas mileage on regular fuel.

It's easy to handle, easy to park and is easy on upkeep. Like the standard Electronic Ignition System that virtually eliminates ignition tune-ups.

Duster's price is nice, too. But let a member of our Chrysler-Plymouth Economy Team tell you all about that. You know who I mean.

Sen. Metzenbaum Sees Depression Already Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard Metzenbaum said Thursday there already are signs in Ohio that a recession has begun and accused President Nixon of having "blinders on" in his assertion there will be no recession this year.

Metzenbaum cited the Cleveland Trust Company's business bulletin for January that stated December possibly marked the first month of a recession.

And he noted that appraisal did not take into account the full impact of the energy crisis, including an estimated 33,000 Ohioans losing their jobs and nearly 104,000 persons filing continuing unemployment claims.

"What worsens the economic outlook is that while growing numbers of people are out of work prices continue to escalate," the Cleveland Democrat said.

Energy Conservation Regulations Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Changes in Ohio's building code aimed at conserving energy will be proposed to the state Board of Building Standards when it meets here Feb. 22-23.

Joe Shump, director of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations, said the proposed changes are the result of a six-month study by the Energy Conservation Task Force of the BBS.

Shump said the goal is to produce buildings in Ohio which would require less energy when occupied than buildings now being constructed.

Propose Stiffer Drug Sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been asked by President Nixon to enact laws which would prevent federal judges from letting many convicted dope traffickers either go virtually free or receive light sentences.

The request came Thursday in a special message to Congress in which Nixon said he was determined "to maintain and increase the pressure on those who traffic in human misery."

The President also noted that federal studies show "more than a quarter of those who are convicted do not serve a single day behind bars ... nearly half of those arrested for drug trafficking may be continuing their criminal activities while out on bail."

The study by the Drug Enforcement

Administration reported that sentences for convicted pushers have decreased from an average of 73 months to 54 months. A DEA spokesman noted that many of those sentenced may actually serve very little of their sentence.

Someone convicted of narcotics trafficking is eligible for parole after serving one-third of his sentence, with another one-third possibly stripped off for good behavior.

The penalties proposed by Nixon would require minimum federal sentences — which now do not exist — of not less than 3 years for a first offense, with the maximum 15 years. Sentences for second offenses would be not less than 10 nor more than 30 years.

Other proposals in the legislation would increase the maximum federal penalty for illicit trafficking in non-narcotic drugs, including marijuana, from the present 5 years for a first offense to 10 years. The minimum penalty would be 3 years in jail.

Judges also would be able to deny bail if a defendant arrested for trafficking in dangerous drugs had been previously convicted of a drug felony or was out on parole, probation or bail in connection with another felony.

Ohioans awoke to mild almost balmy temperatures this morning. But a sudden change was on the way.

A major winter storm moving into the midwest was to bring gusty winds today and drop temperatures from the 50s to the 30s by this afternoon. Readings were to continue to fall tonight, reaching the teens and low 20s by morning.

A cold wave warning has been issued for Ohio tonight. The plunging temperatures were to be accompanied by rain and a few thundershowers today and flurries tonight.

By Saturday, high pressure is to move back into the state, bringing an end to the flurries in all but the northeastern counties. Temperatures were to remain on the cold side, with highs reaching only the upper 20s or 30s.

All parts of the state received rain last night, with Cincinnati and Toledo reporting about one-half inch each, one-third of an inch in Dayton and Findlay, a quarter of an inch in Cleveland and Columbus and slightly lesser amounts in Akron, Mansfield and Youngstown.

Shock Parole Set In 800 Ohio Cases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Corrections Chief Bennett J. Cooper said Thursday hearings for about 800 Ohio prison inmates eligible for the new shock parole system will begin next month.

The law, which became effective Jan. 1, allows the parole of non-dangerous first offenders who have served at least six months of their sentences.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) Is it true that a retiree may be entitled to a tax credit for 1973 when he files his return?

(A.) Yes. If you are a retired U.S. citizen or resident, had $600 of earned income in each of any 10 calendar years before 1973, and had retirement income during 1973, you may be entitled to a tax credit. In addition, just by filling out a few lines on Schedule R and your tax form, you can get the IRS to compute the retirement income credit for you. See your tax form instructions for details.

(Q.) My husband and I are legally separated. I have custody of our daughter. Does this mean I can claim her as a dependent?

(A.) That depends. First, you and your husband together must have furnished more than one half of the child's support for 1973. Secondly, the child must be in your or your husband's custody for more than half the year.

If these conditions are satisfied, then generally the parent having custody of the child for the greater part of 1973 is entitled to the dependency exemption. However, there are exceptions to this rule. Your husband may be entitled to the exemption if he contributed at least $600 toward the child's support during the year and the decree of separate maintenance or a written agreement specifies that he is entitled to the exemption.

Another exemption arises if he paid $1,200 or more of support for the child in 1973 and you do not establish by a clear preponderance of the evidence that you furnished more for support.

(Q.) I heard that there are five tests that must be met for a taxpayer to claim a person as a dependent. What are they?

(A.) For a person to qualify as your dependent for 1973, the following tests must be met: 1) You must furnish over half of the dependent's total support during the calendar year; 2) Unless the person is less than 19 years of age at the end of the year or a full-time student during five months of the year, you may not claim him as a dependent if his gross income is $750 or more; 3) The person must be a member of your household and live with you for the entire year or be closely related to you; 4) He must be a citizen or national of the U.S. or a U.S. resident, or a resident of Canada, Mexico, Panama Canal Zone or the Republic of Panama for some part of the year; and 5) The person must not file a joint return unless one is not due but was filed merely to obtain a refund.

(Q.) I had a part-time job last summer to pay college tuition. I didn't earn enough to pay income tax, but I'm going to file a return to recover income tax withheld from my pay. Can I check off $1 of the tax withheld for the Presidential Election Campaign Fund?

(A.) No. You can only designate $1 ($2 if married filing jointly) if you had at least that much tax liability.

(Q.) I pledged $100 to a charitable organization in December 1973. I was billed in January 1974 and just paid the bill. Can I deduct this amount on my 1973 return?

(A.) No. Contributions must actually be paid before the close of 1973 to be deductible on your return for that year.

(Q.) Can I file my tax return without my Form W-2?

(A.) You should make every effort to obtain your W-2 form from your employer to insure a proper return.

However, your return must be filed on time. If you do not have all your Forms W-2, report all your income and attach a statement explaining how you computed any tax withheld for which you claim credit, but for which you have no Form W-2.

If, after you have filed your return, you receive a Form W-2 for income that you did not include in your return, or if you find your estimates of income and withholding tax to be incorrect, file an amended return, Form 1040X. This form is available at any IRS office.

(Q.) Do you have a booklet that describes tax law changes for 1973 Federal income tax returns?

(A.) Yes. IRS Publication 553, "Highlights of 1973 Changes in the Tax Law," is available free from your local IRS office. Taxpayers seeking more details may purchase IRS Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," from Internal Revenue offices and many post offices for $1.00. Mail orders may be made to the Public Documents Distribution Center, Pueblo Industrial Park, Pueblo, Colo., 81009. The price for mail orders is $1.25.

Teachers Protest Transfers

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Board of Education planned to hear protests from teachers today in a dispute over mass transfers next year to integrate all school faculties racially.

The teachers had planned a "sick out" today to attend the regular board meeting at 10 this morning. Board President Charles Lindberg announced a special session for 4 p.m. in addition to the regular session in an attempt to thwart the "sick out."

Last week the administration announced plans to move nearly 300 teachers, 231 of them white, to achieve a 75-25 per cent white-black ratio at each school to reflect the racial makeup of the city.

The Cincinnati Federation of Teachers and other dissident groups have held protest meetings to air their grievances.

Harriet Russell, president of the Cincinnati Teachers Association which has bargaining rights for the district's 3,120 teachers, said the CTA generally favors the transfers.

She noted that teachers within the district will have an opportunity to vote on the issue.

"They'll get their democratic process," said Miss Russell. The transfer policy has been written into a new master contract beginning negotiated.

She said the teachers can vote against the transfers by voting against ratification of the contract.

American Pilot Goes On Trial In Plane Death

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — American pilot Donald McCusker, 50, of Columbus, Ohio, goes on trial here Oct. 7 on charges of negligence in the plane crash that killed the son of shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis.

McCusker was at the controls when the twin-engine amphibious Piaggio plane owned by the Onassis family crashed shortly after takeoff from Athens airport in January 1973.

Alexander Onassis, 24, the magnate's only son, died of his injuries in a hospital.

McCusker was accused by a committee of experts of mishandling the aircraft. If convicted, McCusker would face a maximum sentence of five years in prison.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United States imported more than 5.1 million tons of foreign steel last year, a drop from the 17.7 million tons imported in 1972, according to an industry report.

A record 18.5 million tons was imported in 1971, said the report released Thursday by the American Iron & Steel Institute (AISI).

The average per ton value of overseas steel shipped to the U.S. jumped from $158 in 1972 to more than $186 last year, but at year's end the steel trade deficit remained just under $2 billion.

Propose Stiffer Drug Sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been asked by President Nixon to enact laws which would prevent federal judges from letting many convicted dope traffickers either go virtually free or receive light sentences.

The request came Thursday in a special message to Congress in which Nixon said he was determined "to maintain and increase the pressure on those who traffic in human misery."

The President also noted that federal studies show "more than a quarter of those who are convicted do not serve a single day behind bars... nearly half of those arrested for drug trafficking may be continuing their criminal activities while out on bail."

The study by the Drug Enforcement

Administration reported that sentences for convicted pushers have decreased from an average of 73 months to 54 months. A DEA spokesman noted that many of those sentenced may actually serve very little of their sentence.

Someone convicted of narcotics trafficking is eligible for parole after serving one-third of his sentence, with another one-third possibly stripped off for good behavior.

The penalties proposed by Nixon would require minimum federal sentences — which now do not exist — of not less than 3 years for a first offense, with the maximum 15 years. Sentences for second offenses would be not less than 10 nor more than 30 years.

Other proposals in the legislation would increase the maximum federal penalty for illicit trafficking in non-narcotic drugs, including marijuana, from the present 5 years for a first offense to 10 years. The minimum penalty would be 3 years in jail.

Judges also would be able to deny bail if a defendant arrested for trafficking in dangerous drugs had been previously convicted of a drug felony or was out on parole, probation or bail in connection with another felony.

Find American Taxpayers Following Nixon Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's tax case will cost the U.S. government substantial revenue, perhaps $1 billion, because unhappy taxpayers will claim any questionable deduction this year, a former Internal Revenue Service chief says.

Johnnie M. Walters, who resigned as IRS commissioner last May to practice tax law here, said in an interview that public disclosure of Nixon's tax deductions and payments are adversely affecting the tax-collection system.

"Wherever I've been, there's an indicated willingness to claim items that may be questionable to a far greater extent than I've known before," he said. "And this is a view I'm getting from sophisticated people."

Walters said he sees no breakdown of the tax system because of public unhappiness over Nixon's case, but "I can foresee a substantial loss of revenue." Asked if it could be as high as $1 billion, he said, "that's your

With 80 million taxpayers, he said, it doesn't take much in the way of extra deductions by a large segment of people to add up into the millions. The Treasury Department estimates that the government will collect $161 billion in income taxes in fiscal 1974.

The thing that would be most helpful to restore credibility in the tax system would be a full and complete announcement on the IRS decision on Nixon's tax return, he said. Although this is contrary to the principle of confidentiality of tax returns, Walters said that principle already has been waived by public announcement of the President's tax returns.

He said it is helpful that the joint committee on revenue and taxation of Congress also is reviewing the President's tax returns.

Asked how he thought taxpayers are treating Internal Revenue Service auditors in view of the President's case, Walters said the auditors are "getting flak and they're going to get more flak."

Fire Destroys Truck's Load

Thirty gallons of battery acid and 119 batteries were demolished by fire at 1:10 p.m. Thursday while the truck in which they were being transported caught afire. Firemen despatched to the scene on Route 22 at the call of Mansil Hurlbut who operates a restaurant in the area.

Truck driver Glendon Cable was en route from Zanesville to Greenfield when his entire load was destroyed. Estimated loss was $2,600 of batteries and acid from the Farmer's Wholesale Supply.

Common Cause Wants Candidates To Bare Finances

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Candidates for statewide office in Ohio were offered a chance Thursday to join in a voluntary campaign finance disclosure program sponsored by the Ohio Chapter of Common Cause.

Spokesmen for the citizens' lobby said 13 would-be state officeholders have agreed to participate.

Only one candidate contacted so far — former Gov. James A. Rhodes, who is running again for governor — has said he will not take part, said spokesman Robert Rich.

Rich said Rhodes informed the group by letter that he would wait for passage of a similar disclosure plan by the Ohio General Assembly.

Military Lottery Affects Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 96,500 young men in Ohio will get military lottery numbers March 20, state Selective Service Director Paul A. Corey said today.

The lottery numbers will be drawn in Washington even though there is no military draft and no plans for a callup, Corey said.

All young men born in 1955 will get numbers, he explained, and some will be placed in a class available for military service. This group will form a standby pool of young men "readily inductible" in 1975, he said.

'Custom Feeding' Of Cattle Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will hold two hearings next week on a proposal to bar meat packers from "custom feeding" cattle for others, a practice officials say could give big slaughter plants a monopoly in the livestock market.

Hearings by the department's Packers and Stockyards Administration will be held Feb. 26-27 in Des Moines, Iowa, and Feb. 28 and March 1 in Phoenix, Ariz.

A spokesman for the agency, which administers fair-trade regulations affecting the livestock industry, said Thursday "a lot of heat" has been generated against the proposal among meat packers and many feedlot operators.

The proposal was issued last month and is open for public comment through March 18. In addition to

Butler County Judge Victim Of Burglary

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Probate Judge Harry F. Walsh has become the third victim at the Butler County Courthouse of a safe burglar.

The sheriff's office said the thief has also robbed the safes of the clerk of courts and auditor. In each case, the burglar has been able to open the combinations on the safes.

About $800 was taken in the latest theft.

prohibiting meat packers from custom feeding of livestock, the rules would bar feedlot operators from engaging in the meat business.

As defined in the rule proposal, a custom feedlot is one which fattens livestock "for the accounts of others, either on a fee basis or without any prescribed or identifiable charge or fee."

The official notice by the agency said about 75 per cent of the cattle slaughtered commercially in 1972 were animals "finished," or fattened, for market in feedlots, including all kinds of operations.

"The meat-packing industry is beginning to expand into the feeding of livestock on a custom basis," the agency said. "The expansion is accomplished in various ways, including the purchase of feedlots, building feedlot facilities or merging into commercial feedlots which feed livestock on a custom basis."

Officials said packer ownership of custom feedlots would put meat companies in control of major livestock marketing facilities.

"Moreover, the mere fact of a packer owning the facilities of a custom feedlot appears to offer the packer privileges to information on competitors which have been specifically prohibited by regulation," the agency said.

The cheetah differs from all other cats in having nonretractable claws.

"P.S." stands for "peak-shavers" and South Central knows how important they are in keeping costs down.

The cost of electric power from the supplier to the distributor — and thus to the ultimate consumer — is based, among other factors, on a situation called "peak demand". Thus, if South Central's member-consumers demand a hypothetical 200,000 kilowatts of energy on a given cold day, then future power sales to South Central would be based on that 200,000 kilowatt-demand figure. Obviously then, if that 200,000 kilowatt peak can be shaved, or reduced, power costs can be minimized and, hopefully, power rates to consumers can be either maintained at present levels or increases kept to the minimum.

South Central statistics over the years show that a peak demand situation exists between 5:00 and 9:00 P.M. on any day when the temperature is 10° or less. You, as a South Central consumer can be a peak-shaver when those conditions prevail.

Here's how "peak-shavers" help keep South Central's demand down. May we suggest that you follow their example?

Baking a cake for dinner?
Put it in the oven a little earlier so that it's done and out before 5:00 P.M.

Schedule your laundry as a morning chore to avoid power usage in water heating and clothes drying during peak hours.

If you're in the habit of bathing or showering as soon as you get home from work, postpone it. Make it a pre-bedtime shower or bath. Anything to move it out of the peak demand hours between 5:00 and 9:00 P.M.

Instead of washing those dishes right after dinner, let them sit for a while.

There are many other ways you can join the ranks of peak-shavers. Don't run the garbage disposal until after 9:00 P.M., for instance. Save the use of its electric motor during peak demand hours. During this period don't use electric heaters or heat lamps. Turn off a 100 Watt bulb during those hours. (If all of our 40,000 consumers did that, we'd have an immediate saving of 4,000 kilowatts). Practice moderation in the use of all electric power, and be particularly alert to its conservation when the temperature is scheduled to drop below 10° between the hours of 5:00 and 9:00 P.M.

Do that and you'll become a peak-shaver. You'll help your company keep its costs down and thus help keep your rates stable or increases to a minimum.

P.S.: We love you!

Find American Taxpayers Following Nixon Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's tax case will cost the U.S. government substantial revenue, perhaps $1 billion, because unhappy taxpayers will claim any questionable deduction this year, a former Internal Revenue Service chief says.

Johnnie M. Walters, who resigned as IRS commissioner last May to practice tax law here, said in an interview that public disclosure of Nixon's tax deductions and payments are adversely affecting the tax-collection system.

"Wherever I've been, there's an indicated willingness to claim items that may be questionable to a far greater extent than I've known before," he said. "And this is a view I'm getting from sophisticated people."

Walters said he sees no breakdown of the tax system because of public unhappiness over Nixon's case, but "I can foresee a substantial loss of revenue." Asked if it could be as high as $1 billion, he said, "that's your

With 80 million taxpayers, he said, it doesn't take much in the way of extra deductions by a large segment of people to add up into the millions. The Treasury Department estimates that the government will collect $161 billion in income taxes in fiscal 1974.

The thing that would be most helpful to restore credibility in the tax system would be a full and complete announcement on the IRS decision on Nixon's tax return, he said. Although this is contrary to the principle of confidentiality of tax returns, Walters said that principle already has been waived by public announcement of the President's tax returns.

He said it is helpful that the joint committee on revenue and taxation of Congress also is reviewing the President's tax returns.

Asked how he thought taxpayers are treating Internal Revenue Service auditors in view of the President's case, Walters said the auditors are "getting flak and they're going to get more flak."

Fire Destroys Truck's Load

Thirty gallons of battery acid and 119 batteries were demolished by fire at 1:10 p.m. Thursday while the truck in which they were being transported caught fire. Firemen dispatched to the scene on Route 22 at the call of Mansil Hurlbut who operates a restaurant in the area.

Truck driver Glendon Cable was en route from Zanesville to Greenfield when his entire load was destroyed. Estimated loss was $2,600 of batteries and acid from the Farmer's Wholesale Supply.

Common Cause Wants Candidates To Bare Finances

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Candidates for statewide office in Ohio were offered a chance Thursday to join in a voluntary campaign finance disclosure program sponsored by the Ohio Chapter of Common Cause.

Spokesmen for the citizens' lobby said 13 would-be state officeholders have agreed to participate.

Only one candidate contacted so far — former Gov. James A. Rhodes, who is running again for governor — has said he will not take part, said spokesman Robert Rich.

Rich said Rhodes informed the group by letter that he would wait for passage of a similar disclosure plan by the Ohio General Assembly.

Military Lottery Affects Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 96,500 young men in Ohio will get military lottery numbers March 20, state Selective Service Director Paul A. Corey said today.

The lottery numbers will be drawn in Washington even though there is no military draft and no plans for a callup, Corey said.

All young men born in 1955 will get numbers, he explained, and some will be placed in a class available for military service. This group will form a standby pool of young men "readily inductible" in 1975, he said.

'Custom Feeding' Of Cattle Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will hold two hearings next week on a proposal to bar meat packers from "custom feeding" cattle for others, a practice officials say could give big slaughter plants a monopoly in the livestock market.

Hearings by the department's Packers and Stockyards Administration will be held Feb. 26-27 in Des Moines, Iowa, and Feb. 28 and March 1 in Phoenix, Ariz.

A spokesman for the agency, which administers fair-trade regulations affecting the livestock industry, said Thursday "a lot of heat" has been generated against the proposal among meat packers and many feedlot operators.

The proposal was issued last month and is open for public comment through March 18. In addition to

Butler County Judge Victim Of Burglary

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Probate Judge Harry F. Walsh has become the third victim at the Butler County Courthouse of a safe burglar.

The sheriff's office said the thief has also robbed the safes of the clerk of courts and auditor. In each case, the burglar has been able to open the combinations on the safes.

About $800 was taken in the latest theft.

prohibiting meat packers from custom feeding of livestock, the rules would bar feedlot operators from engaging in the meat business.

As defined in the rule proposal, a custom feedlot is one which fattens livestock "for the accounts of others, either on a fee basis or without any prescribed or identifiable charge or fee."

The official notice by the agency said about 75 per cent of the cattle slaughtered commercially in 1972 were animals "finished," or fattened, for market in feedlots, including all kinds of operations.

"The meat-packing industry is beginning to expand into the feeding of livestock on a custom basis," the agency said. "The expansion is accomplished in various ways, including the purchase of feedlots, building feedlot facilities or merging into commercial feedlots which feed livestock on a custom basis."

Officials said packer ownership of custom feedlots would put meat companies in control of major livestock marketing facilities.

"Moreover, the mere fact of a packer owning the facilities of a custom feedlot appears to offer the packer privileges to information on competitors which have been specifically prohibited by regulation," the agency said.

"P.S." stands for "peak-shavers" and South Central knows how important they are in keeping costs down.

The cost of electric power from the supplier to the distributor — and thus to the ultimate consumer — is based, among other factors, on a situation called "peak demand". Thus, if South Central's member-consumers demand a hypothetical 200,000 kilowatts of energy on a given cold day, then future power sales to South Central would be based on that 200,000 kilowatt-demand figure. Obviously then, if that 200,000 kilowatt peak can be shaved, or reduced, power costs can be minimized and, hopefully, power rates to consumers can be either maintained at present levels or increases kept to the minimum.

South Central statistics over the years show that a peak demand situation exists between 5:00 and 9:00 P.M. on any day when the temperature is 10° or less. You, as a South Central consumer can be a peak-shaver when those conditions prevail.

Here's how "peak-shavers" help keep South Central's demand down. May we suggest that you follow their example?

Baking a cake for dinner?
Put it in the oven a little earlier so that it's done and out before 5:00 P.M.

Instead of washing those dishes right after dinner, let them sit for a while.

Schedule your laundry as a morning chore to avoid power usage in water heating and clothes drying during peak hours.

If you're in the habit of bathing or showering as soon as you get home from work, postpone it. Make it a pre-bedtime shower or bath. Anything to move it out of the peak demand hours between 5:00 and 9:00 P.M.

There are many other ways you can join the ranks of peak-shavers. Don't run the garbage disposal until after 9:00 P.M., for instance. Save the use of its electric motor during peak demand hours. During this period don't use electric heaters or heat lamps. Turn off a 100 Watt bulb during those hours. (If all of our 40,000 consumers did that, we'd have an immediate saving of 4,000 kilowatts). Practice moderation in the use of all electric power, and be particularly alert to its conservation when the temperature is scheduled to drop below 10° between the hours of 5:00 and 9:00 P.M.

Do that and you'll become a peak-shaver. You'll help your company keep its costs down and thus help keep your rates stable or increases to a minimum.

P.S.: We love you!

Logan Elm reserve coach Asa Bradbury and his cagers grabbed the Mid-State crown with a mark of 12-2 and carried a 16-2 overall record.

These young men, mostly sophomores, have picked up a lot of experience and valuable knowledge this year and will be out to make the returning veterans hustle for their jobs next season.

It certainly looks like 1974-75 will be a very interesting year on the hardwood for the Pickaway County fans.

Our "fearless" forecast—Circleville will take the "hart" out of Hartley . . . Westfall will alter the course of Jonathan Alder . . . The Vikings will "miff" Mifflin . . . Logan Elm will drub Dublin.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Marquette Tops Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP) — Marquette's basketball team made a case for the defense Thursday night.

"That's our game," said Maurice Lucas after the ninth-ranked Warriors beat Manhattan 73-59 with a flashy press that drew raves from the audience at Madison Square Garden.

It was man-to-man and murder all the way.

"We practice defense mainly," said Lucas, explaining Coach Al McGuire's basic basketball philosophy. "We generally start the five best defensive players."

The speed-rich Warriors were given a tough time in the first half by the emotion-charged Jaspers. But then their defense took the stand.

"We have tremendous talent," said Lucas, who scored a game-high 18 points. "And we're starting to jell finally. We're a unit now."

Lucas is the Warriors' scoring leader with a modest 15-point average

— so you know they've had to have something else to win 20 games in a season for the seventh straight year. "We have great speed," said Earl Tatum, explaining the Warriors' 20-3 record.

The game was the second of a doubleheader at the Garden. In the opener, Jonathan Smith scored 23 points and Billy Lynn 22 to lead the Georgetown Hoyas to an 88-73 decision over St. Peter's, N.J.

Other than Marquette, 17th-ranked Utah was the only member of the Associated Press' Top 20 in action Thursday night. The Redskins were upset by Arizona State 72-68 in a Western Athletic Conference game. Scott Lloyd's 18 points helped Arizona State battle back from a 40-24 first-half deficit.

Arizona moved one-half game ahead of Utah in the WAC, routing Brigham Young 118-90 with Eric Money scoring 31 points and Coniel Norman 27.

Meanwhile, Bradley increased its Missouri Valley Conference record to 8-2 and moved within one-half game of league-leading Louisville, 8-1, with a 92-80 victory over St. Louis behind Mark Dobner's 20 points and Mike Hacrell's 19. Freshman Leartha Scott led St. Louis with 22 points.

In other MVC games, substitute Doug Yoder's two free throws with 17 seconds remaining capped a late rally and lifted Wichita to a 67-66 triumph over Tulsa, and West Texas State overcame New Mexico State 69-63.

Craig Davis scored a careerhigh 33 points and Ron Caldwell and Buzz Thomas paced a second-half rally that carried Drake to a 95-86 victory over Memphis State. Freshman Dexter Reid topped Memphis State with 25 points.

Louis Dunbar's 34 points paced Houston to a 101-86 romp over Houston Baptist. And Mike Rose's 28 points and Jerry Jingles' 27 keyed Northeast

Louisiana's 94-90 victory over Arkansas State despite 33 points by the loser's Steve Brooks.

SVC Names Clark To Star Team

Jay Clark of Westfall gained a berth on the 12-man All-League team selected in the Scioto Valley Conference.

JAY CLARK

Mick Shoemaker, Paint Valley junior, was named the player of the year in the conference. Coach of the year honors went to Mike Harris of Unioto. Unioto captured the league championship with a mark of 6-0. Zane Trace finished second with a record of 4-2.

Zane Trace placed three cagers on the star squad: Barry Delong, senior; Tim Whitten, senior; and Jeff Wright, sophomore.

OU Goes After Cage Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University can clinch a Mid-American basketball title Saturday against visiting Central Michigan, the conference's prime spoiler this season.

The Chippewas have knocked off the MAC's top three teams, Ohio, Bowling Green and Toledo, including an 84-83 upset of the front-running Bobcats last month.

"If we can't win the next two," Ohio Coach Jim Snyder said Thursday, "we don't deserve the championship."

Ohio, 7-3 to 7-4 for Bowling Green and 6-4 for Toledo, can grab an outright championship by clipping Central Michigan and winning at Bowling Green March 2.

Toledo can keep alive its hopes by whipping Miami at Toledo. Bowling Green is idle Saturday while Kent State, 1-8, visits Western Michigan, 4-6, in the other MAC contest.

In other nonconference dates, 14-9 Ball State entertains Georgia Southern and 6-16 Northern Illinois plays host to Wisconsin Parkside.

A three-way title tie still is possible if Ohio whips Central Michigan and bows at Bowling Green and Toledo beats Miami and Kent State.

In that case, Ohio, Bowling Green and Toledo would have 8-4 MAC records and the three would playoff at a neutral site for a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament.

Snyder clearly remembers the loss at Central Michigan starting a brief Bobcat tailspin. Ohio lost three of four MAC games and fell out of the lead. "We just didn't defense them up there," he said. "And they rebounded real well."

Toledo faces a tall order to move into a second-place tie with Bowling Green against defending champion Miami.

The Redskins have played as well as anyone after losing their first three league starts. One of Miami's victories was a 72-59 home thumping of Toledo.

Western Michigan and Kent State will be playing for pride only since both have been mathematically eliminated from the race. Kent won the first meeting 82-66 Jan. 26, the day Flashes mentor Frank Truitt announced he was quitting after the season.

Meanwhile, Ohio State tries to crack a seven-game losing streak at home in a Big Ten rematch with towering Wisconsin. The Badgers, 4-5 and 12-7, won the first meeting 69-64.

The Buckeyes, 1-9 and 6-14, will have leading scorer Bill Andreas available for the first time in three games. The 6-7 junior has been sidelined with a sprained ankle.

Coach Fred Taylor, however, indicated he likely would stick with the same starting five of forwards Andy Stiegemeier and Steve Wenner, center Craig Taylor and guards Gary Repella and Larry Bolden.

Cincinnati, still hopeful for a post season tournament bid with an 18-5 record, launches a big road trip to Davidson Saturday and Jacksonville Monday.

Ohio's two other major independents, 7-14 Xavier and 15-7 Dayton, tangle at Dayton.

Among the conferences, Wittenberg and Muskingum share the Ohio Conference title, Hanover has the Hoosier-Buckeye crown while Hiram owns at least a share of the President's championship and Malone a certain co-title in the Mid-Ohio.

Hiram can wrap up the President's crown with a home victory over last-place Carnegie Mellon.

Malone can reign as the sole Mid-Ohio champion by beating Cedarville at Canton.

Elsewhere in regular season competition Saturday, Findlay is at Thomas More, Ashland at Gannon, Wright State at Rose-Hulman, Urbana at Wilmington, Ohio Dominican at Rio Grande, Mercyhurst at Walsh, Defiance at Hanover, Bluffton at Goshen, Wilberforce at Tiffin, Central State at Fairmont State, Steubenville at Youngstown, Brockport State at Akron, Cleveland State at Eastern Illinois, Bethany at Case Western Reserve and John Carroll at Thiel.

Sportsmen Discuss Funds For New Indoor Range

The Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Association discussed obtaining funds to construct a new indoor range and club meeting quarters at the new recreation area on Route 22.

Bill Clark, president, was in charge of the meeting which was held Thursday at the indoor range on the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

David Massie, archery division chairman, informed the club the archery course would be completed and the first archery sessions will begin in four weeks.

The first and third Sunday of each month have been designated as work sessions by Clark. Time period will be

1 p.m. until dark.

Dick Redman, club secretary, requested all members to write their state representatives expressing their views on Ohio Joint Resolution 44.

Dick Neblette, high powered rifle chairman, reported the first high power registered match will be held at Camp Sherman Military Range, Chillicothe, April 20-21.

Tiger Frosh

In Cage Finals

Circleville's freshman cagers advanced to the finals of the South Central Ohio League tournament at Miami Trace with a 35-34 decision over Hillsboro Thursday.

The Tigers will meet Miami Trace 1 p.m. Saturday for the championship. Trace beat Washington C. H. to gain a berth in the title tilt.

Frank Merrill paced Circleville with 17 points, Brian Fath and Mearle Logan each had six, Bill Mogan tallied four and Brian Price added two.

The Tiger frosh are now 14-0 for the season.

Westfall Girls Stop Unioto

Westfall's girl cagers ran their season record to 7-2 with a 41-29 win over visiting Unioto Thursday.

Karen Marshall led Westfall with 18 points, Cindy Schleich had 11, Kelly Steinhauer added 10 and Jan Long and Michele Conley each tallied one point.

Westfall will conclude season play Thursday at Washington C.H.

CHS Matmen Compete In Sectional

Circleville's wrestling squad will be competing in the sectional tournament today and Saturday at Bexley High School.

The first four finishers in each weight class will advance to the district tournament March 2 at Licking Heights.

Today's action will get underway at 6 p.m. with Saturday's competition set for 1 p.m.

Starters for coach Brent Bell's Tigers will be: Andy Smith, 98-pound; Dave Defrank, 105-pound; Brett Christy, 112-pound; Randy Swoyer, 119-pound; Joe Smith, 126-pound; Jim Cordle, 132-pound; Jim Payne, 138-pound; Roger Davis, 145-pound; John McCoy, 155-pound; John Payne, 167-pound; Tim Wilkinson, 175-pound; Tom England, 185-pound; Dave Bond, heavyweight.

Fans going to the tournament can take E. Main St. into Bexley. Turn left at the second street past the Bexley Theatre, Cassingham Road, and the school is located between Main and Broad Sts.

OC North Competition Toughens

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Oberlin, Mt. Union and Kenyon made their way into the second round of the Ohio Conference Northern Division basketball tournament, but none of them had an easy time of it in first round games Thursday night.

Oberlin edged Heidelberg 58-54, Kenyon edged Wooster 58-53, and Mt. Union held off Baldwin-Wallace 59-53 in the opening round.

Kenyon meets Ohio Northern, which had a bye in the first round, and Mt. Union plays Oberlin tonight.

Thursday's opening game was marred by the illness of Mt. Union Coach Gary Fisher, who reportedly suffered a severe digestive attack with two minutes left in the game and was rushed to Southwest General Hospital. Fisher was treated and released.

The Mt. Union Purple Raiders overcame B-W's slowdown tactics in the first half and outscored the Yellow Jackets 14-4 in the last minutes to take a 28-12 halftime lead.

B-W came back in the second half and had closed to within four points when the game was halted because of Fisher's illness.

Tom Seaver Signs $170,000 Pact With N.Y. Mets

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Tom Seaver made baseball history, but when will Hank Aaron make his baseball history?

That was the question baseball fans were discussing and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Thursday he would take his own swing at it.

While Seaver of the National League Champion New York Mets was signing his 1974 baseball contract Thursday, making the powerful right-hander the highest paid pitcher in baseball history, Kuhn said he would again discuss with Atlanta Braves officials the club's decision to hold Aaron out of the lineup during the Braves opening series in Cincinnati against the Reds.

The Braves' benching of Aaron was designed to provide Aaron, who is one career home run shy of Babe Ruth's record 714 homers, a chance to break the record before the home fans in Atlanta.

"I'll make my decision based on the best interests of baseball," said Kuhn, on hand to greet the Pittsburgh Pirates as the National League club opened spring training.

Kuhn has no authority to tamper with the Atlanta lineup, but an official in the commissioner's office expects him to make a few suggestions.

Meanwhile, Seaver made a suggestion of his own and Mets' General Manager Bob Scheffing agreed to it, giving Seaver a liveable wage in the neighborhood of $170,000.

The 29-year-old Seaver earned an estimated $150,000 last season when he posted a 19-10 record and won the Cy Young Award for the second time. He also led the league with an earned run average of 2.08 and 251 strikeouts, the third time he won both those titles in the same season.

In other baseball developments, Commissioner Kuhn said he was certain Dick Williams, former manager of the Oakland A's, would not attempt to show up at spring training.

The manager of the A's will be Alvin Dark, named by Charley Finley to manage a Finley team for the second time.

Williams, who left the A's last October after Oakland won its second straight world championship, still has two years left on his contract.

In contract signings, Brooks Robinson, winner of 14 consecutive Gold Glove awards, headed a group of players coming to terms for the 1974 season.

The 36-year-old third baseman, who signed his 20th consecutive contract with the Baltimore Orioles, received an estimated $105,000 last season, and is believed to have agreed to a slight raise after two contract talks with General Manager J. Frank Cashen.

Outfielder Charley Spikes, pitcher Cecil Upshaw, and first baseman Wayne Cagle all came to terms with the Cleveland Indians; infielders Lee Richards and Sam Ewing signed with the Chicago White Sox; catcher John

OU Goes After Cage Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University can clinch a Mid-American basketball title tie Saturday against visiting Central Michigan, the conference's prime spoiler this season.

The Chippewas have knocked off the MAC's top three teams, Ohio, Bowling Green and Toledo, including an 84-83 upset of the front-running Bobcats last month.

"If we can't win the next two," Ohio Coach Jim Snyder said Thursday, "we don't deserve the championship."

Ohio, 7-3 to 7-4 for Bowling Green and 6-4 for Toledo, can grab an outright championship by clipping Central Michigan and winning at Bowling Green March 2.

Toledo can keep alive its hopes by whipping Miami at Toledo. Bowling Green is idle Saturday while Kent State, 1-8, visits Western Michigan, 4-6, in the other MAC contest.

In other nonconference dates, 14-9 Ball State entertains Georgia Southern and 6-16 Northern Illinois plays host to Wisconsin Parksides.

A three-way title tie still is possible if Ohio whips Central Michigan and bows at Bowling Green and Toledo beats Miami and Kent State.

In that case, Ohio, Bowling Green and Toledo would have 8-4 MAC records and the three would playoff at a neutral site for a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament.

Snyder clearly remembers the loss at Central Michigan starting a brief Bobcat tailspin. Ohio lost three of four MAC games and fell out of the lead.

"We just didn't defense them up there," he said. "And they rebounded real well."

Toledo faces a tall order to move into a second-place tie with Bowling Green against defending champion Miami.

The Redskins have played as well as anyone after losing their first three league starts. One of Miami's victories was a 72-59 home thumping of Toledo.

Western Michigan and Kent State will be playing for pride only since both have been mathematically eliminated from the race. Kent won the first meeting 82-66 Jan. 26, the day Flashes mentor Frank Truitt announced he was quitting after the season.

Meanwhile, Ohio State tries to crack a seven-game losing streak at home in a Big Ten rematch with towering Wisconsin. The Badgers, 4-5 and 12-7, won the first meeting 69-64.

The Buckeyes, 1-9 and 6-14, will have leading scorer Bill Andreas available for the first time in three games. The 6-7 junior has been sidelined with a sprained ankle.

Coach Fred Taylor, however, indicated he likely would stick with the same starting five of forwards Andy Stiegemeier and Steve Wenner, center Craig Taylor and guards Gary Repella and Larry Bolden.

Cincinnati, still hopeful for a post season tournament bid with an 18-5 record, launches a big road trip to Davidson Saturday and Jacksonville Monday.

Ohio's two other major independents, 7-14 Xavier and 15-7 Dayton, tangle at Dayton.

Among the conferences, Wittenberg and Muskingum share the Ohio Conference title, Hanover has the Hoosier-Buckeye crown while Hiram owns at least a share of the President's championship and Malone a certain co-title in the Mid-Ohio.

Hiram can wrap up the President's crown with a home victory over last-place Carnegie Mellon.

Malone can reign as the sole Mid-Ohio champion by beating Cedarville at Canton.

Elsewhere in regular season competition Saturday, Findlay is at Thomas More, Ashland at Gannon, Wright State at Rose-Hulman, Urbana at Wilmington, Ohio Dominican at Rio Grande, Mercyhurst at Walsh, Defiance at Hanover, Bluffton at Goshen, Wilberforce at Tiffin, Central State at Fairmont State, Steubenville at Youngstown, Brockport State at Akron, Cleveland State at Eastern Illinois, Bethany at Case Western Reserve and John Carroll at Thiel.

Tiger Frosh

In Cage Finals

Circleville's freshman cagers advanced to the finals of the South Central Ohio League tournament at Miami Trace with a 35-34 decision over Hillsboro Thursday.

The Tigers will meet Miami Trace 1 p.m. Saturday for the championship. Trace beat Washington C. H. to gain a berth in the title tilt.

Frank Merrill paced Circleville with 17 points, Brian Fath and Mearle Logan each had six, Bill Mogan tallied four and Brian Price added two.

The Tiger frosh are now 14-0 for the season.

Westfall Girls Stop Unioto

Westfall's girl cagers ran their season record to 7-2 with a 41-29 win over visiting Unioto Thursday.

Karen Marshall led Westfall with 18 points, Cindy Schleich had 11, Kelly Steinhauer added 10 and Jan Long and Michele Conley each tallied one point.

Westfall will conclude season play Thursday at Washington C.H.

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Link to Khaled and Old Majesty are favored tonight in the $5,000 featured mile at Latonia Race Course.

Native Shoes won by a nose over Pig Party Thursday night covering the mile and 1-16th in 1:49 4-5.

OC North Competition Toughens

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Oberlin, Mt. Union and Kenyon made their way into the second round of the Ohio Conference Northern Division basketball tournament, but none of them had an easy time of it in first round games Thursday night.

Oberlin edged Heidelberg 58-54, Kenyon edged Wooster 58-53, and Mt. Union held off Baldwin-Wallace 59-53 in the opening round.

Kenyon meets Ohio Northern, which had a bye in the first round, and Mt. Union plays Oberlin tonight.

Thursday's opening game was marred by the illness of Mt. Union Coach Gary Fisher, who reportedly suffered a severe digestive attack with two minutes left in the game and was rushed to Southwest General Hospital. Fisher was treated and released.

The Mt. Union Purple Raiders overcame B-W's slowdown tactics in the first half and outscored the Yellow Jackets 14-4 in the last minutes to take a 28-12 halftime lead.

B-W came back in the second half and had closed to within four points when the game was halted because of Fisher's illness.

Tom Seaver Signs $170,000 Pact With N.Y. Mets

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Tom Seaver made baseball history, but when will Hank Aaron make his baseball history?

That was the question baseball fans were discussing and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Thursday he would take his own swing at it.

While Seaver of the National League Champion New York Mets was signing his 1974 baseball contract Thursday, making the powerful right-hander the highest paid pitcher in baseball history, Kuhn said he would again discuss with Atlanta Braves officials the club's decision to hold Aaron out of the lineup during the Braves opening series in Cincinnati against the Reds.

The Braves' benching of Aaron was designed to provide Aaron, who is one career home run shy of Babe Ruth's record 714 homers, a chance to break the record before the home fans in Atlanta.

"I'll make my decision based on the best interests of baseball," said Kuhn, on hand to greet the Pittsburgh Pirates as the National League club opened spring training.

Kuhn has no authority to tamper with the Atlanta lineup, but an official in the commissioner's office expects him to make a few suggestions.

Meanwhile, Seaver made a suggestion of his own and Mets' General Manager Bob Scheffing agreed to it, giving Seaver a liveable wage in the neighborhood of $170,000.

The 29-year-old Seaver earned an estimated $150,000 last season when he posted a 19-10 record and won the Cy Young Award for the second time. He also led the league with an earned run average of 2.08 and 251 strikeouts, the third time he won both those titles in the same season.

In other baseball developments, Commissioner Kuhn said he was certain Dick Williams, former manager of the Oakland A's, would not attempt to show up at spring training.

The manager of the A's will be Alvin Dark, named by Charley Finley to manage a Finley team for the second time.

Williams, who left the A's last October after Oakland won its second straight world championship, still has two years left on his contract.

In contract signings, Brooks Robinson, winner of 14 consecutive Gold Glove awards, headed a group of players coming to terms for the 1974 season.

The 36-year-old third baseman, who signed his 20th consecutive contract with the Baltimore Orioles, received an estimated $105,000 last season, and is believed to have agreed to a slight raise after two contract talks with General Manager J. Frank Cashen.

Outfielder Charley Spikes, pitcher Cecil Upshaw, and first baseman Wayne Cage all came to terms with the Cleveland Indians; infielders Lee Richards and Sam Ewing signed with the Chicago White Sox; catcher John

Players Winning With Arbitration

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The first statistics of the baseball season show that major league players are batting .600 in the arbitration league.

A survey by The Associated Press disclosed today that at least 29 players have taken their salary pitches to arbitration with six cases known to have been decided in favor of the player and four in favor of the club.

As befits the world champions, the Oakland A's led the way to the jury room. Nine dissatisfied members of owner Charles O. Finley's green and gold band submitted their salary demands to an arbitrator and Finley countered with his final offer.

Winners were third baseman Sal Bando ($100,000) and pitchers Ken Holtzman ($93,000), Rollie Fingers (about $65,000) and Darold Knowles (around $60,000).

Losers — and not too happy about it — were catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace and infielder Ted Kubiak, who got raises anyway, and minor league infielder Jack Heidemann, who took a $5,000 cut.

"He (Finley) is going to have to find himself another catcher because I refuse to catch any more," grouched Tenace, the 1972 World Series hero who earned about $33,000 last season, was offered $45,000 and asked for $52,500. "I'm going to play only one position and that's first base. If he doesn't appreciate what I do for this club by properly compensating me, then I'll play first base and just stay there. I caught as a favor to him and saved him some money because he didn't have to call up another catcher. Now he'll have to."

Under the arbitration rules, each side presents a final salary figure and the arbitrator decides on one within 72 hours. The ruling is binding.

Decisions still are pending in the cases of Oakland outfielders Reggie Jackson, the American League's most valuable player in 1973, and Joe Rudi. They reportedly are asking $135,000 and $67,500, respectively, while Finley is said to have offered $100,000 and $55,000.

Other known winners are pitcher Dick Woodson of the Minnesota Twins and outfielder Norm Miller of the Atlanta Braves. Atlanta first baseman Frank Tepedino came out a loser.

Woodson was the first announced

Underdogs Doing Well In OC South

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP)—It's beginning to look like another year for the underdogs in the Ohio Conference basketball tournament—at least in the Southern Division playoffs.

Unheralded Denison surprised favored Muskingum 54-48 and Otterbein shocked Capital 57-56 in first round action Thursday night. Marietta, meanwhile, barely salvaged a 55-54 triumph over lowly Ohio Wesleyan.

As a result, two of the top four teams in the final conference standings were eliminated from the tournament.

Wittenberg, tied Muskingum for first place in the league after regular season play with a 10-2 mark, drew a first round bye and meets Otterbein tonight. Denison plays Marietta in the second game.

Denison, winner of only five of 13 regular season league games, fought back from a 10-point deficit.

Led by Todd Harris with 14 points and Kevin McNamara with 12, Denison finally caught up with seven minutes left to play and took the lead for good 48-46 on a basket by Rex Linkenbach with 1:04 showing on the clock.

Stefanich Leads Tourney

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., winner of more than $36,000 this year on the Professional Bowlers Association tour, was in front today as match play continued in the semifinals of the $100,000 Winston-Salem Classic.

He won six of eight games, spilling 1737 pins, in Thursday night's opening head-to-head play among 24 semifinalists who survived 18-game qualifying rounds Wednesday and Thursday.

winner. A team spokesman said the pitcher and the Twins were about $3,000 apart in the mid-$20,000 salary range. Woodson compiled a 10-8 record and 3.95 earned run average last season.

The survey showed that at least 22 American Leaguers and seven National Leaguers have availed themselves of the new arbitration proceeding, which was part of the agreement between players and management last year.

Braves Blitz N.Y. Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was the National Basketball Association's No. 1 offensive team, the Buffalo Braves, against the league's No. 1 defensive team, the New York Knicks, and as rarely happens, the offense prevailed.

The Braves, playing at racehorse speed, blitzed the Knicks with 10 straight points at the outset, rolled to a 35-16 firstquarter lead, increased the margin to an overwhelming 67-38 at halftime and wound up with a 119-97 victory Thursday night at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto.

The Golden State Warriors trounced the Cleveland Cavaliers 122-103 in the only other NBA game.

In the American Basketball Association, the San Antonio Spurs whipped the Utah Stars 123-102 and the Memphis Tams beat the Denver Rockets 111-106.

The crowd of 13,306, the largest for a Buffalo game in Toronto this season, where the Braves will play a total of nine contests, couldn't help getting excited at Buffalo's sizzling performance. The Braves stunned the defending NBA champions quickly, connecting on 16 of 25 shots in the first period, and continued the assault in the second quarter, firing in 15 of 23 attempts.

Bob McAdoo, the league leader in both scoring and field goal percentage, collected 29 points for Buffalo and rookie Ernie DiGregorio added 22. Walt Frazier topped the Knicks with 17 points.

Indiana Faces Minnesota

By JERRY LISK

First-place Indiana, nursing a half-game lead, probes ambush country Saturday, invading Minnesota in a key game of the waning Big Ten basketball race.

Indiana's defending champion Hoosiers take a 9-1 record to Minneapolis where they have lost on the last five trips there and Coach Bobby Knight is winless in his three-season Indiana career.

Another pivotal Saturday game funds runnerup Purdue (9-2) invading Michigan, trailing the Boilermakers by only a half-game with an 8-2 mark.

Still in contention at 7-3, fourth-spot Michigan State is host to Northwestern 3-7 with MSU's Spartans having a slim chance in the Big Ten's 14-game title chase.

Indians Sign Charley Spikes

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians say Charley Spikes has signed his contract, leaving only four players unsigned.

Among the unsigned is catcher Ken Suarez, who was acquired by the Indians in a trade with the Texas Rangers but says his contract dispute is with Texas, not Cleveland.

Others unsigned are outfielders Rusty Torres and George Hendricks and pitcher Rich Sawyer.

Indiana takes a 10-game winning streak, longest since the 1960 Hoosiers won 12 straight, against revived Minnesota which has won five of its last six games.

Hurdling Minnesota is vital to Indiana which then will have the home court advantage in two of its remaining three games.

On Monday, the Hoosiers are host to Michigan State. Then after a March 2 road game against cellar-mired Ohio State, Indiana closes at home March 9 against arch-rival Purdue.

Little Leading In Gleason Golf

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — All those putts that Gene Littler missed last week are falling for him now.

"My putting has been very erratic this year," the 43-year-old Littler said Thursday after a brilliant exhibition on the greens had given him a five-under-par 67 and a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic.

"I've had some good putting rounds — and I've had some terrible ones. Last week, in the third round, in one stretch of eight holes, I three-putted four times and four-putted once.

"And this one," he said, the hint of a smile crossing his usually expressionless face, "was my best putting round of the year."

Littler, a former U.S. Open champion and winner of 25 titles in his two decades on the pro tour, used only 28 strokes on the greens — only 12 in his first nine holes — in establishing a one-stroke margin over young Tom Jenkins, runner-up with a 68.

Australian Bruce Crampton, Lee Elder, Kermit Zarley and Jim Wiechers managed 69s in the gusty, tricky winds that swept the 7,128-yard Inverrary Country Club course, and defending champion Lee Trevino carded a 70.

Masters champ Tommy Aaron had a 71 and 61-year-old Sam Snead matched par 72. But Johnny Miller, a three-time winner this season, went over par for only the second time this year at 73, Tom Weiskopf blew to a 77 and Jack Nicklaus had to birdie his last two holes for a 74.

N.Y. Rangers Whip Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We stayed close to the Kings in the early going and we came from behind three times. That's the sign of a good hockey team," New York Rangers' Coach Emile Francis said.

Francis was relaxing after his National Hockey League team had scored three times in the third period, getting a goal and an assist from center Walt Tkaczuk, to whip the Los Angeles Kings 5-3 Thursday night.

In other NHL action, Buffalo tied Atlanta 4-4 and Montreal topped Vancouver 5-2. In the only World Hockey Association game, Chicago edged Vancouver 5-4.

Boston College rushed for 74 plays in its opening game of the season against Temple.

Littler, a former U.S. Open champion and winner of 25 titles in his two decades on the pro tour, used only 28 strokes on the greens — only 12 in his first nine holes — in establishing a one-stroke margin over young Tom Jenkins, runner-up with a 68.

Australian Bruce Crampton, Lee Elder, Kermit Zarley and Jim Wiechers managed 69s in the gusty, tricky winds that swept the 7,128-yard Inverrary Country Club course, and defending champion Lee Trevino carded a 70.

Masters champ Tommy Aaron had a 71 and 61-year-old Sam Snead matched par 72. But Johnny Miller, a three-time winner this season, went over par for only the second time this year at 73, Tom Weiskopf blew to a 77 and Jack Nicklaus had to birdie his last two holes for a 74.

N.Y. Rangers Whip Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We stayed close to the Kings in the early going and we came from behind three times. That's the sign of a good hockey team," New York Rangers' Coach Emile Francis said.

Francis was relaxing after his National Hockey League team had scored three times in the third period, getting a goal and an assist from center Walt Tkaczuk, to whip the Los Angeles Kings 5-3 Thursday night.

In other NHL action, Buffalo tied Atlanta 4-4 and Montreal topped Vancouver 5-2. In the only World Hockey Association game, Chicago edged Vancouver 5-4.

Boston College rushed for 74 plays in its opening game of the season against Temple.

Underdogs Doing Well In OC South

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP)— It's beginning to look like another year for the underdogs in the Ohio Conference basketball tournament—at least in the Southern Division playoffs.

Unheralded Denison surprised favored Muskingum 54-48 and Otterbein shocked Capital 57-56 in first round action Thursday night. Marietta, meanwhile, barely salvaged a 55-54 triumph over lowly Ohio Wesleyan.

As a result, two of the top four teams in the final conference standings were eliminated from the tournament.

Wittenberg, tied Muskingum for first place in the league after regular season play with a 10-2 mark, drew a first round bye and meets Otterbein tonight. Denison plays Marietta in the second game.

Denison, winner of only five of 13 regular season league games, fought back from a 10-point deficit.

Led by Todd Harris with 14 points and Kevin McNamara with 12, Denison finally caught up with seven minutes left to play and took the lead for good 48-46 on a basket by Rex Linkenbach with 1:04 showing on the clock.

Stefanich Leads Tourney

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., winner of more than $36,000 this year on the Professional Bowlers Association tour, was in front today as match play continued in the semifinals of the $100,000 Winston-Salem Classic.

He won six of eight games, spilling 1737 pins, in Thursday night's opening head-to-head play among 24 semifinalists who survived 18-game qualifying rounds Wednesday and Thursday.

Saxbe Recalls Visits To Old Jail

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe waxed nostalgic recently when he returned to his Mechanicsburg home to help dedicate a new municipal building.

He recalled living across the street from the old City Hall, located on the same site. He was a young boy.

"There wasn't much that was going on that I didn't know about," the attorney general said. "Some of it, it has been said, I may have started."

The nation's top law enforcement officer said he visited the old municipal building almost daily, especially the jail, "to look in on my friends."

Accident Toll Shows Decline

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council says a decline in traffic fatalities because of the fuel shortage contributed to a 1 per cent drop in the nation's accident death toll in 1973.

The figures released Wednesday showed that 116,000 persons died in accidents last year.

While public accident fatalities, including those involving air and water transportation, increased by 1,000 over the previous year, deaths from traffic and home accidents declined by 1,000 each.

The question was, "In Irish history, who were the Tuatha De Danann?"

In part the answer said, "Traditionally these were the prehistoric settlers or colonizers who immediately preceded and were overcome by the Milesians, the original Gaelic colonists. The Tuatha De Danann were tall, blond people from the north, probably Scandinavia or, perhaps, originally from Greece by way of Scandinavia."

Several years ago Carl B. Stokes, former black mayor of Cleveland and then a state representative, laid out before the Ohio House a convincing case that the first Irish residents "actually went there from Africa."

By RICK BUMGARDNER

Jack Lauderdale, a senior, has been announced as the science student of the year from CHS in the Center of Science and Industry's award program.

The purpose of the award is to recognize the outstanding junior or senior science student at Circleville and other high schools. The student also has to be proficient in the mathematics courses he has taken.

Mrs. Lois Heffelfinger, chemistry and physics teacher at CHS, submitted Jack's name to the COSI program, and he was named for the honor.

Mrs. Heffelfinger stated, "throughout all of his science and mathematics courses, Jack has demonstrated extraordinary insight into conceptual material, combined with diligent attention to detail and thorough mastery of all phases of the courses. In addition to all this, he has devoted many hours to creative work in and for the science department."

A banquet was held at the Center of Science and Industry Tuesday night for outstanding science students and their parents. Jack and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lauderdale, attended.

Ann Yates Spends Eight Days In London

By SUSAN ESTES

Last month Circleville senior Ann Yates traveled to London, England, for an eight-day visit. She and her parents toured London with a number of other Circlevillians including Dr. and Mrs. Henry Swope, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brehmer, and Dr. Emily Lutz.

Ann said she spent eight excitement-filled days touring London from nine in the morning to eleven at night. She saw the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace, visited Parliament and Big Ben, went to services at Westminster Abbey, and browsed through shops in the Piccadilly Circus.

Ann and her group enjoyed an Elizabethan banquet at Hatfield House, where Queen Elizabeth I lived during the reign of her sister, Bloody Mary. They also visited the home of Charles Dickens, where they saw many of his original works. Outside London, Ann visited Windsor Castle and Oxford College.

Ann said she especially enjoyed the old pubs and shops with the polished wooden fronts. She said she was also very impressed with the polite English people and their friendly, helpful manner. She liked the way they drove on the opposite side of the street and said that she had a hard time returning to the American way of driving.

Debbie Resler, a former CHS student, flew to London to visit with Ann for a few days. Debbie and her family were transferred last summer to Luxembourg.

"I loved it and can't wait to go back."

She now resides at 205 Marshall Road with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dayhoff. Cindy has become involved at Circleville High School. She is an active member of GAA. Her likes include participating in sports and cheering.

Miss Parker Uses Contract Grade System

By ROBIN MARTIN

Miss Carol Parker, American government teacher, uses a different type of grading system called contract grading.

At the beginning of each grading period, Miss Parker gives the students a list of requirements for each letter grade that must be met to receive that particular grade. The student can choose the grade for which he wants to work, and if he completes all the requirements, he will receive it.

Another aspect of the system is that if an individual does badly on a test, he has a chance to take a similar test and then count the best of the two scores.

Asked about the advantages of the contract grading system, Miss Parker stated, "The system gives the kids a better understanding of why they received the grade they did. It gives each student better control of his grade."

She also pointed out other advantages of the system.

According to Miss Parker, contract grading helps seniors prepare for further education and also makes the class more individualized.

MRS. JAN MARSHALL

Teacher Finds Profession Rewarding

By TAMMY MILLER

"Teaching is a very rewarding experience, not only for yourself, but for the students also. It is a really great experience to watch a child achieve his own self-gratification by accomplishing the goals he set out to do." This is the opinion of Mrs. Jan Marshall, who teaches developmental reading to grades four, five and six at Mound Street and High Street Elementary Schools.

Mrs. Marshall's hometown is New Holland, where she attended Miami Trace High School. She received her bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Ohio State University. Mrs. Marshall taught in the Logan Elm and Paint Valley School districts before coming to Circleville.

It was because of her husband Pete's position as deputy sheriff of Pickaway County that Mrs. Marshall came to Circleville to teach. She and Mr. Marshall reside at 5 Yorkshire Court in Knollwood Village with their two dogs and four cats. She said that she felt Circleville was a very warm and friendly community.

In her spare time Mrs. Marshall enjoys water skiing, swimming, cooking, interior decorating, and just being busy.

Mrs. Marshall stated her teaching philosophy as, "I would like to see each child obtain his own goal in education. As a teacher, I feel a very important part of learning is living life daily, not only in school but at home."

Tigers Seeded Number 2 In Tournament

By CINDY SIMS

The class AA sectional drawings were held in Columbus February 11, and the Circleville Tigers were seeded number two among all of the sectional teams participating in tournament play at Grove City High School.

The tournament starts tonight for the Tigers as they go against Columbus Bishop Hartley. Circleville and Bishop Hartley have the same record of 13 wins and 5 losses. The game will get underway at 8:30 p.m. Bexley and Hamilton Township will play the first game beginning at 7 p.m.

Seniors, Doug Radabaugh, Robin Martin, and Kris Kline stated, "We think we have momentum from our victory over Teays Valley and this first game is the key to how far we go in the tournament."

The Tiger Coach, John Lawhorn commented favorably about the Hartley team. Coach Lawhorn said, "they will be a difficult team to beat, but our guys can do it. We will have to control the tempo of the game. Several teams have not been able to do this against Hartley. The Tigers will be ready for the game tonight."

Belief Falters In Fairness Of Allocations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A weekly poll used by the government to sample opinion about the energy crisis shows that belief in the fairness of fuel allocation is high, but eroding.

The poll also indicated that more people are having trouble getting gasoline, their confidence in Washington is ebbing and rationing is staging a comeback in popularity.

In the week ended Feb. 7, a majority of the 172 persons, which the pollsters say represents a national cross section, reported trouble in obtaining gasoline. The current figure of 51.5 per cent has shown a persistent rise since it hovered at 13 to 16 per cent just before Christmas.

And although a whopping share of the people — 92 per cent — said they felt they are getting their fair share of fuel for home and transportation, the figure represents a decline from 98 per cent in just two weeks.

John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office, said recently, "To give the American people a sense of fairness with our allocation program, to the extent that we can do this, I think we can avoid rationing."

Asked whether they consider rationing necessary, 63 per cent of the people said no. That figure, too, has dropped in two weeks from a high of 72 per cent.

A similar poll was conducted in World War II. At the start of rationing then, only 36 per cent of the nation favored the measure.

The poll is conducted for the Department of Transportation by the National Opinion Research Center of the University of Chicago. The results also are furnished to the Federal Energy Office and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., who made them public.

Percy said the poll shows people are prepared to make sacrifices — 63 per cent have turned down their thermostats, 39 per cent are using appliances less and 87 per cent have cut down on driving.

"But they feel that neither political gimmickry nor gamesmanship is called for," said Percy. "Answers are. Solutions are."

The primary blame for the shortage is a neck-and-neck race between the government in Washington and the oil companies, according to the poll.

Matmen Work For District

By MARGARET MERRILL

"If we wrestle with confidence like we did Saturday, we'll send a lot of guys to the district. We urge everyone to come because with their support we'll win," commented captain Steve Watters.

The wrestling sectionals take place this Friday 5-7 p.m. and Saturday 1-7 p.m. at Bexley. Other teams competing are Jonathan Alder, DeSales, Hamilton Township, Fairfield Union, Bexley, Utica, Marion Pleasant, Logan Elm, Granville, Academy, Bloom Carroll, Licking Valley, Mohawk, Ohio State School for the Blind, River Valley, Teays Valley, Buckeye Valley, and Wehrle.

Weigh-ins are Friday from 1-4 p.m. John McCoy, who was injured last weekend, will be wrestling at Bexley. As for Steve Watters, his participation is questionable because of an injury sustained during the SCOL meet.

The strongest competition will come from Jonathan Alder and DeSales. DeSales won the Sectionals last year.

"We stand a good chance of doing quite well in getting five or six boys in the district competition. Our lighter and middle weights are our strongest points," stated Coach Brent Bell.

Top four winners in each weight class will go on to the district competition.

PUCO Ban On Ads Under Attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Every Ohioan would be required to report cases of suspected child abuse or face up to 30 days in jail and a possible $250 fine under a bill up for a vote in the House next Tuesday.

Rep. Thomas M. Bell, D-10 Cleveland, and 17 co-sponsors said they expect passage of the legislation which also defines child abuse, clarifies "sexual activity" involving a child as an offense, and increases powers of the Welfare Department to implement the law.

The bill also defines "emotional abuse" and provides that a child may be classified as an abused child under the law even though no person is held criminally responsible. An "abused child" is considered as a neglected child and comes under the jurisdiction of juvenile courts, under the proposed statute.

Current law requires doctors, dentists, nurses, teachers, and social workers to report cases of child abuse to law enforcement agencies. The proposed law would extend such responsibility to "all persons" and require them to report to child services boards of local welfare agencies.

Before the lawmakers adjourned for the weekend Thursday, the House rejected 42-43 a proposed constitutional resolution that would have authorized the legislature to grant property tax relief to owners of lands in Ohio used "exclusively for outdoor recreational purposes."

The House vote, with a three-fifths majority of 60 required, killed the embattled proposal for this session. The Senate did not need to act following House defeat of the resolution that was to have been placed on Ohio's May 7 primary ballot. Thursday was the deadline for May ballot issues.

Deletion by a House-Senate conference committee of a provision that would deny tax relief to property owners who discriminate on the basis of sex, race, color, creed, or national origin led to its defeat.

The resolution would have provided that owners of recreational lands could have their property assessed on the basis of use, rather than market value as presently required. Voters approved a similar proposal for farmers last November. The legislature now is working on implementation of that proposal.

In other action, the House added its approval to a Senate bill exempting non-business sales at auction from the state sales tax. House amendments will send it back to the Senate for consideration of amendments.

Senators, by identical 28-0 votes, approved House bills allowing school boards to contract with technical college districts for use of technical college facilities, and conforming certain state public water supply laws with standards of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Sen. Harry Meshe, D-33 Youngstown, introduced a bill creating a Resources Recovery Commission to devise a plan for utilizing solid wastes with regard to the energy crisis.

Rep. M. Joan Douglass, R-61 Mansfield, offered two measures to take the word "bastard" out of the statutes—replacing it with "illegitimate child"—and setting noise control standards for motorcycles and motor bikes.

Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, called in a resolution for a study of boards and commissions empowered to grant occupational and professional licenses.

The House adopted, by voice vote, a resolution commending U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, for his years of service to the state and nation. Saxbe once presided over the House as speaker, in addition to the other state offices once held by him.

Balloonist Lost; Said Somewhere Over North Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was still no word early today on the whereabouts of Thomas Gatch Jr., who is trying to cross the Atlantic in a balloon.

He is believed to be somewhere over North Africa, possibly in the vicinity of Mauritania.

"The trouble is that we have not had a fix on him in the past 24 hours, so anything we might say about his location at this point would be pure conjecture," said a spokesman for the National Meteorological Center in Washington.

Both the center and the Air Transport Association, an organization of scheduled airlines, has been trying to locate the Alexandria, Va., balloonist since he was last contacted by radio Tuesday afternoon. At that time he was about 1,015 miles east-northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Nursing Homes Face Loss Of Licenses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Operators of 305 nursing homes in the state have been notified by the Ohio Department of Health they are in danger of losing their licenses because their establishments are not equipped with approved fire alarm systems.

State Health Director John Cashman said Thursday it is expected that by now "the majority of these homes . . . have made efforts to comply" with a new state law requiring the fire safety equipment.

He said officials anticipate very few licenses will be revoked.

Cashman said homes may request hearings on any action of the health department.

Quick Oil Flow If Embargo Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major oil producer in Saudi Arabia says that if the Arabs lift their oil embargo it can send far more oil to the United States than ever before.

Shipments by Aramco could be increased overnight by two million barrels per day above the pre-embargo levels, Michael M. Arneen Jr., company vice president, said Thursday.

Ameen said the Saudi government forced Aramco to reduce production last fall. But the company has continued to expand its facilities.

The company's present production of about 7 million barrels a day compares to 8.8 million daily before the embargo. If the embargo is lifted, Aramco production could be increased to 10.3 million barrels a day, he said.

Kissinger Proposes Board On Multinational Companies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in his first major venture in Latin American policy, has taken a new tack in seeking a solution to the delicate problem of United States investments abroad.

Speaking Thursday at the opening of a three-day conference with 24 Latin American foreign ministers, the American foreign policy chief proposed the formation of a "fact-finding" board of important hemispheric figures to handle disputes involving U.S. companies.

One delegate present at the closed-door meeting said the board would try to resolve disputed nationalization or expropriation moves against U.S. companies and thus avoid government-to-government confrontations.

"Kissinger explained that while countries have their own responsibilities, the U.S. also has a policy of protecting U.S. companies abroad. So there is often a problem," he said.

One delegate said Kissinger had presented "some sound ideas, but they must be studied." But others were unhappy because he had seized the initiative at a conference they expected to dominate.

"Kissinger presented some things the foreign ministers weren't prepared for, such as the fact-finding board idea, and they don't know what to do about it," a delegate said.

Guyana's foreign minister, S. S. Ramphal, said it was a mistake to let Kissinger speak before the Latin Americans had the chance to air their complaints against the United States.

"The judgment has been presented before the case has even been argued," he said. "We warned the others about this before. Now the foreign ministers, with our momentum lost, have to work very hard to argue the appeal."

Kissinger also reportedly said that the United States is open to interim solutions of its dispute over the 200-mile fishing limit enforced by Ecuador, Peru and Chile. He also announced that the United States and Panama will open negotiations in Washington in May for a new canal treaty embodying the principles the two governments agreed on earlier this month.

is a favorable consensus among all Arab states.

Sakkar ruled out such a consensus before an agreement on the disengagement of Israeli and Syrian forces.

In the United States, federal energy chief William E. Simon met with six governors in an effort to work out a more equitable allocation of available gasoline.

Simon said the FEO is working on a new allocation formula that would take account of such factors as gasoline sales and motor vehicle registrations. Present allocations are based primarily on percentages of 1972 sales.

The governors who met with Simon were Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, Daniel J. Evans of Washington, James E. Holshouser of North Carolina, Philip W. Noel of Rhode Island, Wendell H. Ford of Kentucky and Marvin Mandel of Maryland.

However, in four other gasoline-starved states, thousands of gasoline station operators threatened to padlock their pumps or sell until their tanks are dry.

Service stations throughout Pennsylvania were ready to close at 6 p.m. today and stay shut "until the federal ostriches get their heads out of the sand," said Tom Anderson, executive director of the Pennsylvania Service Station Dealers Association.

Station closings also were threatened in Delaware, Connecticut and New York State.

Wallace Runs Again

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace announces today his candidacy for an unprecedented third term as governor of Alabama, possibly setting the stage for another race for president.

Wallace, 54 now and paralyzed in both legs from an attempted assassination during his 1972 presidential campaign, had said privately months ago that he would seek renomination in the May 7 Democratic primary. But he waited almost until the March 1 qualifying deadline to make it official.

He already has opposition but is heavily favored to win by a substantial majority. His major opponent is state Sen. Eugene McLain of Huntsville.

Wallace, or his late wife Lurleen, has controlled state government for nearly all of the past 11 years. He made most of the decisions while his cancer-stricken wife was governor. She died in May 1968, and 32 months later Wallace went back into office for a second four-year term.

Wallace, who began his first term as governor in 1963 with the battlecry "segregation forever," toned down his racial image as time went by, and recently spoke at a meeting of Southern black mayors at Tuskegee. He also crowned a black coed as homecoming queen at the University of Alabama, his alma mater, during the past football season.

PUCO Ban On Ads Under Attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Every Ohioan would be required to report cases of suspected child abuse or face up to 30 days in jail and a possible $250 fine under a bill up for a vote in the House next Tuesday.

Rep. Thomas M. Bell, D-10 Cleveland, and 17 co-sponsors said they expect passage of the legislation which also defines child abuse, clarifies "sexual activity" involving a child as an offense, and increases powers of the Welfare Department to implement the law.

The bill also defines "emotional abuse" and provides that a child may be classified as an abused child under the law even though no person is held criminally responsible. An "abused child" is considered as a neglected child and comes under the jurisdiction of juvenile courts, under the proposed statute.

Current law requires doctors, dentists, nurses, teachers, and social workers to report cases of child abuse to law enforcement agencies. The proposed law would extend such responsibility to "all persons" and require them to report to child services boards of local welfare agencies.

Before the lawmakers adjourned for the weekend Thursday, the House rejected 42-43 a proposed constitutional resolution that would have authorized the legislature to grant property tax relief to owners of lands in Ohio used "exclusively for outdoor recreational purposes."

The House vote, with a three-fifths majority of 60 required, killed the embattled proposal for this session. The Senate did not need to act following House defeat of the resolution that was to have been placed on Ohio's May 7 primary ballot. Thursday was the deadline for May ballot issues.

Deletion by a House-Senate conference committee of a provision that would deny tax relief to property owners who discriminate on the basis of sex, race, color, creed, or national origin led to its defeat.

The resolution would have provided that owners of recreational lands could have their property assessed on the basis of use, rather than market value as presently required. Voters approved a similar proposal for farmers last November. The legislature now is working on implementation of that proposal.

In other action, the House added its approval to a Senate bill exempting non-business sales at auction from the state sales tax. House amendments will send it back to the Senate for consideration of amendments.

Senators, by identical 28-0 votes, approved House bills allowing school boards to contract with technical college districts for use of technical college facilities, and conforming certain state public water supply laws with standards of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, introduced a bill creating a Resources Recovery Commission to devise a plan for utilizing solid wastes with regard to the energy crisis.

Rep. M. Joan Douglass, R-61 Mansfield, offered two measures to take the word "bastard" out of the statutes—replacing it with "illegitimate child"—and setting noise control standards for motorcycles and motor bikes.

Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, called in a resolution for a study of boards and commissions empowered to grant occupational and professional licenses.

The House adopted, by voice vote, a resolution commending U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, for his years of service to the state and nation. Saxbe once presided over the House as speaker, in addition to the other state offices once held by him.

Balloonist Lost; Said Somewhere Over North Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was still no word early today on the whereabouts of Thomas Gatch Jr., who is trying to cross the Atlantic in a balloon.

He is believed to be somewhere over North Africa, possibly in the vicinity of Mauritania.

"The trouble is that we have not had a fix on him in the past 24 hours, so anything we might say about his location at this point would be pure conjecture," said a spokesman for the National Meteorological Center in Washington.

Both the center and the Air Transport Association, an organization of scheduled airlines, has been trying to locate the Alexandria, Va., balloonist since he was last contacted by radio Tuesday afternoon. At that time he was about 1,015 miles east-northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Nursing Homes Face Loss Of Licenses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Operators of 305 nursing homes in the state have been notified by the Ohio Department of Health they are in danger of losing their licenses because their establishments are not equipped with approved fire alarm systems.

State Health Director John Cashman said Thursday it is expected that by now "the majority of these homes . . . have made efforts to comply" with a new state law requiring the fire safety equipment.

He said officials anticipate very few licenses will be revoked.

Cashman said homes may request hearings on any action of the health department.

Quick Oil Flow If Embargo Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major oil producer in Saudi Arabia says that if the Arabs lift their oil embargo it can send far more oil to the United States than ever before.

Shipments by Aramco could be increased overnight by two million barrels per day above the pre-embargo levels, Michael M. Ameen Jr., company vice president, said Thursday.

Ameen said the Saudi government forced Aramco to reduce production last fall. But the company has continued to expand its facilities.

The company's present production of about 7 million barrels a day compares to 8.8 million daily before the embargo. If the embargo is lifted, Aramco production could be increased to 10.3 million barrels a day, he said.

Kissinger Proposes Board On Multinational Companies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in his first major venture in Latin American policy, has taken a new tack in seeking a solution to the delicate problem of United States investments abroad.

Speaking Thursday at the opening of a three-day conference with 24 Latin American foreign ministers, the American foreign policy chief proposed the formation of a "fact-finding" board of important hemispheric figures to handle disputes involving U.S. companies.

One delegate present at the closed-door meeting said the board would try to resolve disputed nationalization or expropriation moves against U.S. companies and thus avoid government-to-government confrontations.

"Kissinger explained that while countries have their own responsibilities, the U.S. also has a policy of protecting U.S. companies abroad. So there is often a problem," he said.

One delegate said Kissinger had

Wallace Runs Again

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace announces today his candidacy for an unprecedented third term as governor of Alabama, possibly setting the stage for another race for president.

Wallace, 54 now and paralyzed in both legs from an attempted assassination during his 1972 presidential campaign, had said privately months ago that he would seek renomination in the May 7 Democratic primary. But he waited almost until the March 1 qualifying deadline to make it official.

He already has opposition but is heavily favored to win by a substantial majority. His major opponent is state Sen. Eugene McLain of Huntsville.

Wallace, or his late wife Lurleen, has controlled state government for nearly all of the past 11 years. He made most of the decisions while his cancer-stricken wife was governor. She died in May 1968, and 32 months later Wallace went back into office for a second four-year term.

Wallace, who began his first term as governor in 1963 with the battlecry "segregation forever," toned down his racial image as time went by, and recently spoke at a meeting of Southern black mayors at Tuskegee. He also crowned a black coed as homecoming queen at the University of Alabama, his alma mater, during the past football season.

Radio Permit Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission said Thursday it had received an application from the Hamilton (Ohio) School district for a permit to construct an educational FM radio station.

Ameen said almost all of the 3.3 million barrel increase could be shipped to the United States. That would exceed Aramco's pre-embargo shipments to the United States by about two million barrels a day.

"We can get that oil in here (the United States) in five or six weeks," he told a group of tanker executives.

Aramco's figure of 3.3 million barrels compares to total petroleum imports last week averaging 4.6 million barrels a day, according to statistics of the American Petroleum Institute.

Meanwhile, as key Arab leaders gathered for an Islamic summit conference in Pakistan, Saudi Foreign Minister Omar Sakkar said the oil embargo will not be lifted unless there presented "some sound ideas, but they must be studied." But others were unhappy because he had seized the initiative at a conference they expected to dominate.

"Kissinger presented some things the foreign ministers weren't prepared for, such as the fact-finding board idea, and they don't know what to do about it," a delegate said.

Guyana's foreign minister, S. S. Ramphal, said it was a mistake to let Kissinger speak before the Latin Americans had the chance to air their complaints against the United States.

"The judgment has been presented before the case has even been argued," he said. "We warned the others about this before. Now the foreign ministers, with our momentum lost, have to work very hard to argue the appeal."

Kissinger also reportedly said that the United States is open to interim solutions of its dispute over the 200-mile fishing limit enforced by Ecuador, Peru and Chile. He also announced that the United States and Panama will open negotiations in Washington in May for a new canal treaty embodying the principles the two governments agreed on earlier this month.

is a favorable consensus among all Arab states.

Sakkar ruled out such a consensus before an agreement on the disengagement of Israeli and Syrian forces.

In the United States, federal energy chief William E. Simon met with six governors in an effort to work out a more equitable allocation of available gasoline.

Simon said the FEO is working on a new allocation formula that would take account of such factors as gasoline sales and motor vehicle registrations. Present allocations are based primarily on percentages of 1972 sales.

The governors who met with Simon were Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, Daniel J. Evans of Washington, James E. Holshouser of North Carolina, Philip W. Noel of Rhode Island, Wendell H. Ford of Kentucky and Marvin Mandel of Maryland.

However, in four other gasoline-starved states, thousands of gasoline station operators threatened to padlock their pumps or sell until their tanks are dry.

Service stations throughout Pennsylvania were ready to close at 6 p.m. today and stay shut "until the federal ostriches get their heads out of the sand," said Tom Anderson, executive director of the Pennsylvania Service Station Dealers Association.

Station closings also were threatened in Delaware, Connecticut and New York State.

Mass Murder Defendants Reject Deal

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Both defendants in the Texas mass murder case have turned down an offer of life sentences in return for guilty pleas, assistant district attorney Don Lambright says.

Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Owen Brooks, 18, are charged in what police call the homosexual-torture slayings of 27 teen-agers over a three-year period.

Henley is charged in six of the deaths and Brooks in four. Neither defendant has been tried.

Will Gray, lawyer for Henley, said he rejected the offer because, he claims, the state cannot seek the death penalty.

"Since the most he can get is life, they haven't really offered anything," Gray said.

Ted Musick, lawyer for Brooks, was not available for comment.

Lambright said Thursday that Dist. Atty. Carol Vance offered the lawyers the deals two months ago. Lambright said prosecutors would have had difficulty in obtaining the death penalty since the state statute has not been upheld by an appeals court as constitutional.

The Texas Penal Code allows the death penalty in the murder of a peace officer or fireman, murder committed in the course of kidnaping, rape, burglary, robbery or arson and murder committed for hire or while escaping from jail or prison.

Public Assistance Overpayments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Public Welfare reports a review of 10 per cent of the Aid to Dependent Children cases in Lucas County shows 4.3 per cent ineligible and 5.6 per cent getting overpaid.

Welfare Director Charles Bates reported Thursday the check showed 7 per cent of the recipients were underpaid.

Gov. John J. Gilligan ordered a review of Ohio's 143,000 ADC cases last November, after a sampling showed nearly 14 per cent of them ineligible.

In Memoriam

Most Richly Blessed
I asked for strength that I might achieve.
He made me weak that I might obey.
I asked for health that I might do greater things.
I was given grace that I might do better things.
I asked for riches that I might be happy.
I was given poverty that I might be wise.
I asked for power that I might have the praise of men.
I was given weakness that I might feel the need of God.
I asked for all things that I might enjoy life.
I was given life that I might enjoy all things.
I received nothing that I asked for;
All that I hoped for.
And I, among men am most richly "Blessed!"
In memory of Richard S. Dawson who passed away Feb. 22, 1964.
Sadly missed by Lenora Dawson and family.

Impeachment Data Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is preparing its first request to the White House for evidence to use in its impeachment investigation.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., said Thursday a letter will be sent to the White House within the next few days specifying the material the committee wants.

If the request is not honored, he said, the committee will consider using its subpoena powers, which could lead to a constitutional clash between Congress and the executive branch.

The committee believes its constitutional authority to conduct an impeachment inquiry overrides any claim to executive privilege. President Nixon has said his cooperation with the committee will be limited to acts that do not impair the presidency.

Any White House refusal to supply evidence requested by the committee could cost the President heavily in Republican support on Capitol Hill.

"If they're going to thwart our investigation down there we're not going to be able to defend him," a Republican member of the committee said. "He's going to be in real trouble."

Rodino announced the impending request for evidence at a news conference at which the committee was advised by its staff that it need not limit its investigation of possible grounds for impeachment to criminal offenses.

A staff paper, intended only as a guide to the members, said criminal law is not applicable as a standard for impeachment of a president.

"The criminal law ... does not address itself to the abuses of presidential power," said the report. "In an impeachment proceeding a president is called to account for abusing powers which only a president possesses."

Most members received the report without comment. But Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the committee's ranking Republican, rejected the finding that a president could be impeached for noncriminal behavior.

Hutchinson's view could lead to a partisan split on the committee, since he shares with Rodino the power to issue subpoenas.

Hutchinson said Thursday he would insist that any request for White House evidence be limited to material relating to impeachable offenses.

Rodino, while not fully endorsing the staff report's definition, said he has felt all along that impeachment does not have to rise out of criminal conduct.

The committee rules provide that in case of disagreement between Rodino and Hutchinson a majority can authorize a subpoena. Such a vote, however, would shatter the non-partisan approach Rodino has been trying to take in the investigation.

Big Labor Seeks 12 Per Cent Hikes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Calling government wage-price controls a fraud that should be ended, the AFL-CIO has set a 12 per cent goal for wage hikes this year.

"There can be no justification whatsoever for a 5.5 per cent standard for wage increases in the face of living costs that are rising almost twice as fast," the AFL-CIO's ruling executive council declared Thursday in an economic statement issued at its annual mid-winter meeting.

The statement signaled an end to organized labor's cooperation with the Nixon administration's controls program, first imposed in August 1971.

The statement added, "In fact, economic justice would dictate that workers' wages reflect at least increases in the cost of living plus productivity."

This would indicate a wage boost of 12 per cent, based on the nearly 9 per cent rise in the cost of living last year plus the historic 3 per cent yearly increase in productivity.

Despite last year's inflation rate — highest in 25 years — wage increases in major 1973 labor contracts adhered to government guidelines. But in recent weeks, rank-and-file pressure for more money has been building as the administration forecasts continued high inflation this year.

"Thirty months of the Nixon Administration's so-called stabilization program have proven its complete and utter failure," the council said. "It has done nothing to curb inflation" and "must not be renewed in any guise."

The administration has proposed that Congress drop controls on all but the health, food and petroleum industries when authorizing legislation expires April 30.

Base Closing Delays Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon probably will delay any major new shutdowns and reductions at military bases until at least late this year.

This change apparently stems from growing concern about a possible economic recession and may have been suggested, if not ordered, by top Nixon administration officials.

"We read the tea leaves," said one Pentagon source in acknowledging the delay.

But he stressed "there are going to be some reductions" in the base structure because of a number of reorganizations, headquarter staff cutbacks, and other streamlining actions being taken by the Armed Services.

Putting off major base closings until late in the year would give Pentagon officials time to see how Congress treats the record $85.8 billion Defense budget. Relatively light cuts in that budget might ease the urgency for stringent economies.

Furthermore, officials are hopeful that the economy will regain its health and that jobs will become more plentiful by next fall. If that happens, base closings might be less difficult politically, particularly if they come after the November congressional elections.

A new round of base actions has been in the works since last summer when the Pentagon acknowledged that it expected "to produce a significant base closure package within the foreseeable future." At that time, the Pentagon indicated it would act this winter or spring.

Dayan Says He'll Back Government

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan persisted today in his refusal to join Premier Golda Meir's new minority government. But he told other leaders of their Labor alignment that he would support and vote for the new cabinet.

Sources in the party said the 75-year-old woman premier would also be her own defense minister if she could not make Dayan change his mind before she must announce the cabinet lineup next week.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres, a member of Dayan's "Rafi" faction of the Labor alignment, announced that he also would stay out of the cabinet. Party sources said Mrs. Meir would take over the Transport Ministry, too, but hoped to persuade Peres as well as Dayan to reconsider.

Mrs. Meir was forced by unacceptable demands from the National Religious party, Labor's traditional coalition partner, to form the first minority government in Israel's history.

Dayan said at a party caucus Thursday night that he "will not take part in the next government." But Mrs. Meir still refused to accept his decision and said she would continue trying to persuade him to join the cabinet.

The 58-year-old leader of Israel's military forces in three wars announced Tuesday he was quitting because the public and his own party were blaming him for Israel's heavy losses at the start of the October war.

Bangladesh Recognized

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan today recognized the independence of Bangladesh, the former East Pakistan which broke away after the war of 1971.

Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto made the announcement over live television. He said a delegation from Bangladesh would come to Lahore Saturday to join the Islamic summit gathering here.

"In the name of God, I today recognize Bangladesh," Bhutto declared in a television studio filled with political leaders and newsmen.

164 Korean Sailors Missing As Tug Capsizes

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A South Korean navy tugboat with 316 seamen aboard capsized just off the south coast port of Chungmu today, and 164 sailors were reported missing, the defense ministry announced.

Boats in the area rescued 152 survivors, but two of them died, the ministry said.

The 120-ton yard tug was ferrying the men from Chungmu, 40 miles west of Pusan, to their ship 700 yards offshore. The tug turned over as she approached the ship and made a turn.

Most of the men aboard were recruits returning from a visit to a shrine near Chungmu.

Cost Of Living Skyrockets Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — With food and fuel costs soaring, consumer prices jumped sharply in January, the government said today. No immediate letup was in sight.

The Labor Department reported that consumer prices increased by a seasonally adjusted one per cent last month, with food and fuel costs accounting for about 80 per cent of the rise.

The January increase put consumer prices 9.4 per cent higher than a year ago, the sharpest leap in the cost of living in any 12-month period since that ending May 1951.

The report showed that inflationary pressures were strong across the economy. Food prices rose 1.6 per cent, nonfood commodities 1.3 per cent and services seven-tenths of one per cent.

The rise in nonfood commodities was the highest since the department began keeping seasonally adjusted records for these goods in February 1956.

Today's consumer-price report comes on the heels of a sharp advance in wholesale prices in January, presaging even higher consumer prices in the weeks and months ahead and posing little relief for consumers.

The report showed that the Consumer Price Index climbed to 139.7 of its 1967 average, meaning that it cost consumers $139.70 to buy the same amount of retail goods and services that $100 bought in 1967.

Before seasonal adjustment, the department said consumer prices rose nine-tenths of one per cent last month, food prices 1.6 per cent and nonfood commodities seven-tenths of one per cent.

Soaring gasoline prices played a large part in the advance. Average prices of both premium and regular gasoline rose 6.2 per cent. The average price for regular jumped to 46.5 cents per gallon and for premium, 50.1 cents per gallon.

Retail prices for food bought in grocery stores, a category which usually doesn't rise in January, soared by 1.8 per cent, double the increases in November and December.

3 Youths Escape At Massillon

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)— Three youths broke away Thursday from guards of the maximum security Indian River Correctional School while on a trip to Canton, the Ohio Youth Commission said.

Randy Wright, 17, of Columbus; Robert Anderson, 16, of Youngstown and Anthony Jordan, 18, of Springfield broke away from two guards at a dentist's office where the three had been taken for treatment, a commission spokesman said. The three still are being sought, he said.

Wright was convicted of burglary, Anderson of shooting with intent to maim and Jordan of armed robbery, the official said.

GI Faces 70 Years

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The Army says Pfc. Robert K. Preston could be sentenced to a dishonorable discharge and up to 70 years in prison if he is convicted on all charges filed against him.

Preston, 20, landed a stolen Army helicopter early last Sunday on the White House south lawn amid a barrage of Secret Service gunfire.

An Army spokesman said Thursday that Preston had been charged with theft, breach of peace, damaging government property and three counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

Preston, a helicopter repairman from Panama City, Fla., who is stationed here, is being held at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for a hearing to determine whether he is competent to stand trial.

According to an Army public information officer, the charges were filed Wednesday by Preston's commander, Maj. John O. Northridge of the 661st Transportation Company.

Rep. Griffiths Won't Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Martha W. Griffiths says she will not seek re-election to Congress, where she has served for 20 years.

The Michigan Democrat, a champion for women's rights, made the surprise announcement Thursday shortly after another Michigan Democrat, Richard F. VanderVeen, was sworn in as the newest member of Congress.

Citing age as a factor, Mrs. Griffiths said: "I'm 62 years old, and while I could have served another term, I've been away from home for 20 years. I would like to spend more time with my husband and my dog Ukie."

Deputy Dountz Visits Atwater

Pickaway County Sheriff's Community Relations Bureau Deputy Bill Dountz, Wednesday, presented a film entitled "Grooving" to sixth grade students at Atwater School.

Returning Thursday, Dountz discussed playground safety to all students and presented a film and lecture concerning drugs to sixth graders.

Tuesday Card Party Location Changed

The monthly card party sponsored by Pickaway Senior Center will be held 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Eagles Lodge and not at the L-K Restaurant as originally planned.

Prizes will be awarded and refreshments served at the party open to the public.
